Would Continue Tax Collection Through July 31

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government could collect, but not necessarily keep, an extra chunk of workers' paychecks under the surtax bill up for final congressional approval in the House.

The stopgap bill is designed to simplify federal bookkeeping and individual tax filing next April without forcing a show-down vote on extension of the 10 per cent surtax imposed last year.

The federal government would have to stop collecting the surtax next Tuesday without House approval of President Nixon's signature on the Senate-passed measure.

The bill authorizes the government to continue collecting the tax through July 31. The money would have to be refunded to taxpayers at the end of the year if the tax itself is not extended. Later extension of the tax without the withholding extension, on the other hand, would force employers to re-start the collection machinery halted by the surtax expiration.

And supporters of the stopgap bill say employers couldn't change their withholding formulas in time, anyway.

The temporary bill drew much less opposition in Congress than original proposals to extend the surtax through Dec. 31, then cut it by half through the first half of next year, as President Nixon asked.

Democratic House leaders decided on Monday they didn't have the votes to grant Nixon's request.

The next day, the Senate passed the temporary measure and House Republican Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford said after a GOP caucus that he counted an additional 40 Republican votes—or 170.

There are 188 Republicans in the House.

If Ford's count was correct, Nixon's proposal needs only about 50 of the House's 245 Democratic votes to gain passage.

School Closes As State Funds Not Provided

CINCINNATI (AP) — McMillan Center, a state financed vocational school that has been training local school dropouts, closed today because of lack of funds.

The school opened eight months ago with $200,000 supplied largely through the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation. The legislature has not yet appropriated new education funds and the fiscal year ends Monday.

However, officials at the school expressed optimism in a September reopening of the school that has trained 200 youths—although original plans called for training of 1,000 in the same time period.

Local school officials and representatives of the vocational rehabilitation agency indicated entrance standards would be lowered—as they felt they were too high on reopening.

Vandals Hit Graves

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Police in Newton Falls in Trumbull County Thursday blamed teen-age vandals for $20,000 damage to 132 tombstones at the Newton Falls Cemetery on Wednesday. The tombstones dated to 1807.

Teens Help Blind 'See' Arboretum

SEATTLE (AP) — Three high school students who wanted to help the blind "see" the University of Washington arboretum spent hours making 100 braille copies of its "native plant walk" booklet.

The trio—Mark Johnson, Rhonda Nelson and Anne Grant—all are sightless.

The project was underwritten by the special education department of the Seattle public schools and a civic club.

County Income Tax Plan Killed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Republicans scrapped plans Thursday for a permissive county income tax to finance education.

In its place they substituted higher state cigarette, corporate franchise and public utility taxes.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, R - 4 Bowling Green, said he was unable to find enough Republicans to support the income tax. But he said the Senate could tack on the measure when it acted on the House's version of the financial bill.

The income tax, which was before the House Ways and Means Committee, apparently will die from inaction and not a committee vote.

Under the new financial proposal the cigarette prices will go up two cents a pack and will bring in about $26 million a year.

Kurfess said the corporation finance tax would increase from four to five mills and add about $20 million yearly. And the utility excise tax would be increased 1 per cent and would add $20 million each year.

Kurfess said the House would vote on the new tax bill in about two weeks.

The increased taxes would furnish about $132 million over two years. It would be added to the $110 million from higher liquor taxes and other monies from the general appropriations bill to pay an estimated $240 million in the state's share of education costs in the next two years.

Just before Kurfess announced that the Republicans were dropping the controversial income tax, House Minority Leader John McDonald, D-19 Newark, told a news conference that Democrats would not support the permissive income tax.

McDonald said each new Republican tax scheme is "a little worse than the one before." He called the proposed permissive county income tax for education "regressive."

The Licking County legislator also criticized the Senate Finance Committee which Thursday approved the administration's $4.1 billion budget.

"The legislative process has been abandoned in favor of midnight meetings where tax programs are being determined in secret by Republican leaders," McDonald said. "I don't think the voters are going to be fooled twice in a row."

McDonald said that the House found a $110 million surplus and the Senate reportedly discovered another $140 million. He said it was impossible to make an honest evaluation of money available because of these discrepancies.

The full Senate will vote on the administration budget Monday.

'Paper Gold' Issuance Eyed

Monetary Group Opens Meeting

PARIS (AP) — The world's money men begin deliberations today on how much and how rapidly they should issue "paper gold" that may one day replace the real metal in nations' treasuries.

Central bankers and representatives of treasuries will discuss the matter through Tuesday at committee meetings of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). It includes 23 of the world's wealthiest nations, 10 of which are lumped together in a policy-making body known as the Group of 10.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, is expected to outline a U.S. policy favoring the issuance of large quantities of paper gold.

The United States reportedly wants to start with $5 billion to $6 billion worth a year for three years. Then somewhat less in the next two years. Other debtors, like Britain, support this concept.

Creditor nations—notably West Germany, Italy and Japan—are more cautious. They are uncertain how acceptable the paper gold will turn out to be, and would prefer to start with $2 billion or $2.5 billion a year and limit the first agreement to three years or less.

Advocates of paper gold argue that it is a more flexible instrument than metal. It can be created or limited by international agreement in accordance with the needs of trade while the quantity of metallic gold available depends on many irrelevant influences, they say.

On the other side of the debate, economists skeptical about the paper gold plan say metallic gold has no equal as a stable, respected measure of value.

But the necessary number of countries is expected to approve the agreement on paper gold by September, when the International Monetary Fund (IMF) holds its annual meeting in Washington.

Dayton Hosting City Officials

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Twenty-seven cities are to be represented at a three-day regional model cities planning conference which opened today at Dayton.

The program has attracted officials of the U.S. Departments of Housing and Urban Development, labor, and education. Workshops are planned on all phases of model cities development and operation.

Dayton City Manager Graham Watt and Rep. Charles Whalen Jr., R-Ohio, are among featured speakers.

Torrential Rains, Damaging Winds Hammer Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Torrential rains and damaging winds staggered portions of the Plains and Midwest today continuing a wave of weather violence that began with summer's arrival six days ago.

Downpours of 9 to 10 inches of rain late Thursday in Chase County, Kan., northeast of Wichita, drove lowland residents to higher ground. Serious flooding developed in other sections of eastern Kansas and Western Missouri.

Wind gusts up to 100 miles an hour ripped some parts of the Kansas City-St. Joseph, Mo., area. The Weather Bureau at Kansas City Municipal Airport clocked winds of 85 miles an hour before a power failure occurred.

The winds tore 17 private planes from their moorings at the St. Joseph Airport, destroying 10 of them.

The weather wildness extended along a line from Oklahoma to Michigan and gave countless midcontinent residents an uneasy night of waiting out one severe storm warning after another.

Tornadoes dipped out of the thunderclouds at numerous points—in Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma—but heaviest damage appeared to come from ordinary strong winds, rather than twisters.

Eight mobile homes were overturned, several houses were destroyed and many others were unroofed in the Platte and Clay areas between Leavenworth, Kan., and St. Joseph, Mo. Two women suffered minor injuries.

The winds peaked at 60 and 70 miles an hour as the storms rumbled across Iowa and into Wisconsin and Michigan.

Hot and humid weather blanketed much of the East. Chicago steamed up to a record-equaling 96 Thursday.

Generally, cool temperatures prevailed in most of the West outside the Southwest.

Man Is Charged In Auto Death

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A 24-year-old man was charged with leaving the scene of an accident in the death Thursday night of an elderly man who was hit by a car on South Arlington Street here.

Charged was Leroy Jameson, of Akron, who police identified as the driver of the car which did not stop following the accident.

Killed was 80-year-old Abe Gascoyne, of Akron, who was pronounced dead on arrival at Akron City Hospital. He was the father of Barberton Police Captain Jack Gascoyne.

Bike Rider Hit By Car

Teddy Davidson, 8, In Fair Condition

Teddy Davidson, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davidson, 139 Fairview Ave., was struck by a taxi in front of his home at 10:34 a.m. today.

He was taken to Berger Hospital for emergency treatment and transferred to Children's Hospital, Columbus, where he was admitted. Officials there listed his condition as "fair" at 1 p.m.

Jack O'Dell, 22, Route 2, was the driver of the cab, owned by A and B Cab Co.

The accident was investigated by Patrolman Jack Mills of the Circleville Police Department. O'Dell told Mills that the youth rode his bicycle from in front of a parked car into the path of the taxi.

O'DELL said he was unable to avoid hitting the youth. No citations were issued by officer Mills.

Davidson sustained injuries to the leg and head and possible internal injuries.

Soviet Ship Makes Port At Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — The captain of the first Soviet ship to unload cargo in a U.S. port in 19 years says there should be closer ties between the two nations "so that we might live in peace together."

While crewmen of the 15,000-ton freighter Orsha unloaded 900 tons of sponge titanium, a strategic metal, Capt. Arkady Bakhar, 50, said he expected his "pioneer voyage" would lead to more Soviet ships docking at U.S. ports.

A dozen men and women from the Tacoma Servicemen's Center, a church-related organization, picketed the ship Thursday but didn't interfere with the unloading operation.

Led by Edie Karnes, director of the center and a World War II veteran, the group carried signs saying, "Save Our Sons" and "Buy a Coffin for an American Boy."

The Coast Guard kept the ship under surveillance, but permitted visitors to board the vessel.

The titanium, important to U.S. defense and aerospace programs because of its high strength and light weight, is being handled through Associated Metals & Minerals Corp., New York City.

The 48-man crew of the Orsha, including six women, toured Seattle by bus Thursday. They were restricted to the Seattle area.

New Industry To Be Located On Route 23

Radio Corporation of America announced at 3 p.m. today plans to build a new plant south of Circleville in Pickaway Twp.

The new industry will manufacture glass for electronic components, RCA officials said today during the formal announcement held at the L-K Restaurant.

Over 600 persons are expected to be employed when the plant starts operations. It will be the largest initial payroll for any industry ever moving to the Circleville area.

The new RCA facility will be located in Colomet's industrial complex in Pickaway Township south of the route that leads to present industries. It will be on the east side of Route 23.

RCA is the third plant that Colomet has brought to the Circleville area, PPG Industries and Owens-Illinois earlier located on land owned by Colomet, a subsidiary of Columbus and Southern Electric.

More complete details of the new industry will be carried by The Herald later.

Today's press run was delayed until after 3 p.m. to bring our readers news of the new industry and boom to the Pickaway County economy.

Luther Hodges Hurt In Fire

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Luther H. Hodges, 70, former North Carolina governor and U.S. secretary of commerce from 1961 to 1965, broke a leg when he jumped from the second story of his home as it was swept by fire Thursday night.

He also suffered smoke inhalation but was reported in satisfactory condition in a hospital.

However, his wife was reported in serious condition in North Carolina Memorial Hospital. A doctor said she suffered smoke inhalation, shock and a possible heart attack. She was placed in an intensive care section.

Firemen said Hodges telephoned the alarm, and when they arrived they found him lying on the ground, conscious after his jump. He told them to get Mrs. Hodges from the house.

They made two passes through the large, French provincial house in a wooded glen off Chapel Hill's main thoroughfare before locating Mrs. Hodges behind some curtains, where she apparently had sought refuge from the dense smoke.

The fire apparently started in the center of the house. Its cause was unknown. The interior of the two-story, brick and frame home sustained considerable damage, but there was little outside damage.

Students Battle Police In Korea

SEOUL (AP) — About 1,000 rock-throwing students battled 400 riot police on a Seoul street today in a bloody demonstration against moves to amend the constitution so that President Chung Hee Park can seek election to a third term.

Two students were seriously injured and about 10 demonstrators were held for police questioning.

It was the first serious street clash between students and police in two years. Street demonstrations are banned here.

North Carolina Sets Cigarette Tax

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina, the last state without a cigarette tax, will have one next fall.

The legislature enacted Thursday a bill which carries a tax of two cents a pack on cigarettes and one cent on soft drinks effective Oct. 1.

Finch Withdraws Nomination Of Knowles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Robert H. Finch today gave up his fight to get Dr. John H. Knowles nominated as the nation's top health officer over objections from the American Medical Association and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

"I have reluctantly and regretfully decided and today advised Dr. John Knowles that the protracted and distorted discussion regarding his appointment as assistant secretary of health and scientific affairs has resulted in a situation in which he would not be able to function effectively," Finch said.

Finch said he would soon ask President Nixon to nominate someone else, but he did not name a candidate.

Finch's simple nine-line statement was handed out by a Welfare Department information officer in a tiny, crowded press room down the hall from Finch's office.

The statement came after a week of bitter behind-the-scenes struggling in the administration. There were reports only a day earlier that Finch had said he would quit if the President did not end a six-month political stalemate and nominate Knowles, director of Massachusetts General Hospital and a long time backer of causes unpopular to elements of organized medicine.

Both Finch and the White House denied these resignation reports.

There was no immediate comment by Knowles or at the White House on Finch's statement today.

Knowles called a 1 p.m. EDT news conference in Boston. President Nixon was off on a visit to the St. Lawrence Seaway.

A Finch spokesman said the secretary would hold a news conference Saturday at a time to be announced.

"I deeply regret this situation and the fact that this department will be deprived of the services of this outstanding leader in the field of health care," the Finch statement said. "Obviously, I assume full responsibility for the delay in this appointment," he added.

Say Armstrong Pulled Rank To Be First Man On Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Neil A. Armstrong used his "commander's prerogative" to become the first man on the moon, a former space agency official says. But other officials say no firm plan ever was made to have anyone else make the first footprints on the moon.

Paul Haney, former public affairs officer at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said Thursday the lunar module pilot, not the commander, was supposed to be first on the moon for almost three years, "regardless of personalities."

Asked if he thought Armstrong pulled rank to become the first on the moon, Haney said:

"It shouldn't be that he pulled rank, but I think he was not unaware of the importance of the first man who stepped onto the moon and looked at it very carefully and decided that perhaps it should be the commander's prerogative."

George M. Low, Apollo program manager, said that the selection of Armstrong as the first man represents no change, although preliminary studies had been made with the lunar module pilot as the first man on the moon.

"The only firm plan ever made was the one we're going to go with," said Low. He said it is based on rehearsals of the moon surface activities and on the recommendation of flight crew training officials.

Present plans call for Armstrong and Edward E. Aldrin Jr. to land the Apollo 11 lunar module on the moon July 20. In the early hours of July 21, Armstrong is to walk down a ladder to the moon's surface. He is to be followed 27 minutes later by Aldrin.

It was after the Apollo 11 crew of Armstrong, a civilian, as commander, Air Force Col. Aldrin as lunar module pilot and Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins as command module pilot was named that the change was made, Haney said.

It was decided in mid-April, Haney said, that Armstrong and not Aldrin would be the first man to walk on another celestial body.

"Precisely why the change, I don't know, but I do know it caused quite an upset," Haney said. The former space official said he was present at the meeting where the change was announced.

Low said Armstrong could exercise no personal prerogative in the decision. He said the final plan had to be approved by the Configuration Control Board.

The project was underwritten by the special education department of the Seattle public schools and a civic club.

Stopgap Tax Extension Bill Faces House

New Industry To Be Located On Route 23

Radio Corporation of America announced at 3 p.m. today plans to build a new plant south of Circleville in Pickaway Twp.

The new industry will manufacture glass for electronic components, RCA officials said today during the formal announcement held at the L-K Restaurant.

Over 600 persons are expected to be employed when the plant starts operations. It will be the largest initial payroll for any industry ever moving to the Circleville area.

The new RCA facility will be located in Colomet's industrial complex in Pickaway Township south of the road that leads to present industries. It will be on the east side of Route 23.

RCA is the third plant that Colomet has brought to the Circleville area. PPG Industries and Owens-Illinois earlier located on land owned by Colomet, a subsidiary of Columbus and Southern Electric.

More complete details of the new industry will be carried by The Herald later.

Today's press run was delayed until after 3 p.m. to bring our readers news of the new industry and boom to the Pickaway County economy.

Luther Hodges Hurt In Fire

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Luther H. Hodges, 70, former North Carolina governor and U.S. secretary of commerce from 1961 to 1965, broke a leg when he jumped from the second story of his home as it was swept by fire Thursday night.

He also suffered smoke inhalation but was reported in satisfactory condition in a hospital.

However, his wife was reported in serious condition in North Carolina Memorial Hospital. A doctor said she suffered smoke inhalation, shock and a possible heart attack. She was placed in an intensive care section.

Firemen said Hodges telephoned the alarm, and when they arrived they found him lying on the ground, conscious after his jump. He told them to get Mrs. Hodges from the house.

They made two passes through the large, French provincial house in a wooded glen off Chapel Hill's main thoroughfare before locating Mrs. Hodges behind some curtains, where she apparently had sought refuge from the dense smoke.

The fire apparently started in the center of the house. Its cause was unknown. The interior of the two-story, brick and frame home sustained considerable damage, but there was little outside damage.

Students Battle Police In Korea

SEOUL (AP) — About 1,000 rock-hurling students battled 400 riot police on a Seoul street today in a bloody demonstration against moves to amend the constitution so that President Chung Hee Park can seek election to a third term.

Two students were seriously injured and about 10 demonstrators were held for police questioning.

It was the first serious street clash between students and police in two years. Street demonstrations are banned here.

Power Failure Due To Wreck

A one car wreck on the Circleville-Groveport Pike 3 a.m. Friday morning left the Ashville area without power for two hours.

Reds Claim Ben Het Ready To Fall

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong claimed today forces under the Communist command have thrown South Vietnamese troops into a "desperate position" at Ben Het, where the South Vietnamese are facing their first hard test against a sizable enemy force.

A clandestine broadcast by the Viet Cong said the Special Forces camp in the central highlands is encircled and under continuous attack.

The supply road to the camp has been cut since Thursday but U.S. cargo planes have dropped more than 40 tons of supplies since then. A company of fresh South Vietnamese irregulars—civilian militiamen—also was flown in.

The Viet Cong broadcast spoke of National Liberation Front troops and local guerrillas as the enemy force besieging Ben Het. But the U.S. Command has identified the enemy force as two regiments of North Vietnamese, totaling about 3,000 men.

The camp is manned by 700 South Vietnamese irregulars, U.S. Green Berets and American artillery men. About 4,500 South Vietnamese army regulars are operating around the camp.

The U.S. Command views the Ben Het campaign as a test of how the South Vietnamese can handle themselves against the North Vietnamese.

The United States and South Vietnam hope to turn more of the fighting on the allied side over to government forces as U.S. troops go home.

The Viet Cong broadcast said the Communist command's force at Ben Het has been pressing attacks on the South Vietnamese at Ben Het since June 6, although the enemy presence there had been noted two months ago.

The Air Force said its cargo planes have been dropping water into the camp, but one report said Americans manning one of three hilltop artillery batteries at Ben Het have been out of fresh water for five days.

Bad weather and what some American officers said was South Vietnamese reluctance to push the infantry war limited allied attempts to lift the siege.

North Vietnamese gunners rained 125 shells on the Special Forces camp Thursday — the fourth day Ben Het withstood a barrage of more than 100 rounds. Another 88 mortar shells fell between midnight and 4 p.m. today.

Spokesmen said nine Americans and three South Vietnamese irregulars were wounded today, while casualties

Funeral services will be 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. G. H. Niswender officiating.

Burial will be in the Imbler Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 7 p.m. Saturday.

1 Car Wreck Injures Two

Pickaway County Sheriff, Dwight Radcliff, is still investigating a one-car accident which injured two people Thursday 11:46 p.m. on Route 56 east, near the Huber-Hitler Road.

James R. Canterbury, Warren, was found guilty in Municipal Court of non-support of a minor.

Acting court judge Harry Margulis fined him $100 and costs, but suspended the fine and placed him on one year probation on condition that he would pay currently in the future.

Barbara Alexander, Route 1, filed the complaint.

Thursday were termed light. The camp is manned by 700 irregulars, Green Berets and American artillerymen.

Little ground activity was reported because an overcast limited air support for the 4,500 South Vietnamese troops sweeping around Ben Het, which is eight miles from Cambodia and Laos and 280 miles northeast of Saigon.

The government troops have been unable to keep open the 10-mile road from Dak To to Ben Het. No road convoy have tried to push through since Tuesday, spokesmen said, because they require deployment of hundreds of troops along the highway.

Power Failure Due To Wreck

A one car wreck on the Circleville-Groveport Pike 3 a.m. Friday morning left the Ashville area without power for two hours.

Donald L. Edgington, 28, of 61 Bortz Rd., Ashville, told Sheriff's Deputy Robert Hoover that a car traveling north on the road forced him off the pavement to the right.

His car traveled 120 feet where it cut off a telephone pole, 150 feet where it leveled a mail box, swerved to the left side of the road and traveled 135 feet where it cut off an electric pole.

Edgington's car caught fire. The Harrison Twp. Volunteer Fire Department was called out to extinguish the blaze.

Edgington suffered a bruise to the left knee and lacerations and bumps to his head.

Deputy Hoover charged him with reckless operation of a motor vehicle.

Reds Claim Ben Het Ready To Fall

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong claimed today forces under the Communist command have thrown South Vietnamese troops into a "desperate position" at Ben Het, where the South Vietnamese are facing their first hard test against a sizable enemy force.

A clandestine broadcast by the Viet Cong said the Special Forces camp in the central highlands is encircled and under continuous attack.

The supply road to the camp has been cut since Thursday but U.S. cargo planes have dropped more than 40 tons of supplies since then. A company of fresh South Vietnamese irregulars — civilian militiamen — also was flown in.

The Viet Cong broadcast spoke of National Liberation Front troops and local guerrillas as the enemy force besieging Ben Het. But the U.S. Command has identified the enemy force as two regiments of North Vietnamese, totaling about 3,000 men.

The camp is manned by 700 South Vietnamese irregulars, U.S. Green Berets and American artillery men. About 4,500 South Vietnamese army regulars are operating around the camp.

The U.S. Command views the Ben Het campaign as a test of how the South Vietnamese can handle themselves against the North Vietnamese.

The United States and South Vietnam hope to turn more of the fighting on the allied side over to government forces as U.S. troops go home.

The Viet Cong broadcast said the Communist command's force at Ben Het has been pressing attacks on the South Vietnamese at Ben Het since June 6, although the enemy presence there had been noted two months ago.

The Air Force said its cargo planes have been dropping water into the camp, but one report said Americans manning one of three hilltop artillery batteries at Ben Het have been out of fresh water for five days.

Bad weather and what some American officers said was South Vietnamese reluctance to push the infantry war limited allied attempts to lift the siege.

North Vietnamese gunners rained 125 shells on the Special Forces camp Thursday — the fourth day Ben Het withstood a barrage of more than 100 rounds. Another 88 mortar shells fell between midnight and 4 p.m. today.

Spokesmen said nine Americans and three South Vietnamese irregulars were wounded today, while casualties home; six brothers, Chester, Hubert and Ronald Stevens, Route 1, Laureville; Ray Stevens, Route 1, Kingston; Gilbert Stevens, Half Ave.; and Leslie Stevens, Omaha, Neb.; three sisters, Mrs. Eugene Saeger and Mrs. Chester Ramey, of Columbus; Mrs. Elmer Payne, Route 1, Laureville; and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. G. H. Niswender officiating.

Burial will be in the Imbler Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 7 p.m. Saturday.

James R. Canterbury, Warren, was found guilty in Municipal Court of non-support of a minor.

Acting court judge Harry Margulis fined him $100 and costs, but suspended the fine and placed him on one year probation on condition that he would pay currently in the future.

Barbara Alexander, Route 1, filed the complaint.

The American Legion Hall Adkins Post No. 134 held its annual election of officers Wednesday night.

MacDonald Schumm replaces Ralph Wallace as commander for the next year. Don Jackson was elected first vice commander; Dallas Hinkle, second vice commander; Walter Pickel Jr., adjutant; A. W. Sherman, finance officer; Claude Robison, chaplain; Robert Carpenter sergeant at arms.

Dudley Radcliff, C. Richard McAbee, and James Price were elected to the executive committee at the meeting.

Informal installation of officers will be held July 9 with formal installation August 2.

Anti-Cigarette Hearings Set

FTC To Study New Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite pleas from the tobacco industry and over the objection of its chairman, the Federal Trade Commission is going ahead with hearings on a tough, new cigarette warning.

The FTC Wednesday rejected, by a 3-2 vote, a move to postpone the hearings until after Congress takes some action on the smoking-health controversy.

The vote paved the way for the FTC to open hearings next Tuesday with testimony from antismoking witnesses, led by Surgeon General William S. Stewart and his predecessor, Dr. Luther L. Terry.

The hearings will deal with a proposed trade regulation requiring all cigarette advertising—in newspapers and magazines as well as television and radio commercials—to state clearly and prominently:

"Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death resulting from cancer, coronary heart disease, chronic bronchitis, pulmonary emphysema and other diseases."

Supporting this claim Tuesday will be Stewart Terry, now chairman of the National Interagency Council on Smoking and Health; Dr. Charles F. Tate, associate professor of medicine at the University of Miami; Dr. Lewis E. January, representing the American Heart Association; Dr. Sol R. Baker, chairman of the American Cancer Society's Committee on Tobacco and Cancer.

Dr. Robert H. Browning, National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association; Dr. Fred G. Bock, New York State Department of Health; and Bentley J. Bieme, president of Smoke Watchers International.

Purposely, the FTC set the beginning of the hearings as soon as possible after the expiration of the 1965 Cigarette Labeling Act.

Harrisburg Calm After 2 Nights Of Disturbances

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—A dusk-to-dawn curfew enforced by police with the assistance of black community leaders cooled racial strife in Pennsylvania's capital Wednesday after two nights of disorders.

With cars and pedestrians off the streets, and businesses closed, the city of 80,000 appeared more like a ghost town.

The disturbances that began Monday night in the integrated Hill section has resulted in the fatal shooting of an 18-year-old Negro youth, 28 persons injured and at least 68 under arrest.

Police Chief Martin L. Watts said "the curfew worked well, and members of the black community did missionary work for us."

The curfew is to remain in effect until Monday.

Minister A 'Strhip' For Teendrunar, 'Muve'

By NEIL BIBLER
Associated Press Writer
SEATTLE (AP) — The dope-heads call him a "strhip." He calls himself a "muver." His basic pitch: There's grass growing on Bikini again.

If that seems like double talk, that's because you're not with it yet. You still haven't heard of Teendrunar, for instance. But read on.

The man is the Rev. Richard Christensen, associate pastor of University Lutheran Church in Seattle. He's a "strhip" because he's straight—not on dope—and yet he's hip, he knows what the teen scene is and a lot about its problems and has something to offer as help.

That help is two things: "muve" and Teendrunar. "Muve" is a new way to use written language, to meld it with contemporary problems and today's music. It takes what the Beatles did to and through music one step farther into the words, the lyrics, the thought.

It's a way to be cool by showing "your warm," your feeling for others and for yourself, your love of man and your hope.

And Teendrunar is a rough way to help teen-age dope addicts—the kids who have lost themselves in "speed," LSD and other drugs. It stands for Teen-age Drug and Narcotic Rehabilitation. In psychological jargon, it's peer group corrective therapy.

Whatever you call it, it's spreading; spreading in part because the Rev. Mr. Christensen has spoken recently to about 40,000 high school and junior high students. And there's his just-released Capitol record, "Muve," his first.

The idea spreads by word of mouth, from one troubled teenager to another.

The teen-age dope addicts, or former addicts, meet with a candidate for their group. The members already know every rationalization for taking drugs. And they lay in to the newcomer hard and fast. They tear at him verbally; they break down his defenses; they browbeat him into emotional disruption.

Then one says to him, "You know why we're doing this? It's because we love you, man."

The technique is used by the Synanon rehabilitation center for addicts in Santa Monica, Calif.

That's one of the hard ways. It's not for every addict, but it's working for 70 kids.

There were others for whom the idea came too late. That's when "muve" came forth.

"When I'd run into a case that I couldn't do anything about," the Rev. Mr. Christensen says, "I'd go home at night and start writing to that person. I wanted to reach him, to tell him what a beautiful life he was throwing away."

This kind of story, backed by today's throbbing combination of jazz, rock, blues and folk music, make up the new record.

"It's using music as a sledgehammer to drive the point into the heart," the minister says. "And the message is there's hope, not dope."

The message is: "There's grass growing on Bikini again; not even The Bomb can conquer life." Bikini, an atoll in the Pacific, was blasted bare by atomic bomb tests.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC FROM THE A & B CAB COMPANY:

We have tried everything to make the cab business go in Circleville. A few months ago we dropped the cab fare to 40 cents anywhere in town, but everyone should know you can't operate for that. Then we set the price to 75 cents anywhere in the city limits, then the people who didn't live over a mile away won't ride. We are going to try and be fair with everyone, we are going to set the cab fare 60 cents per person, first mile 60 cents, 40 cents for each additional mile. Children 6-12, 25 cents. 12 or over full fare. This will make it just 10 cents more than it was 3 years ago. We thought about parking the cabs, then we decided to give it another try. So if the public wants a cab service they will have to support it. We have 6 good clean cabs, they have been safety checked and ready to go anywhere. We have one real nice car we keep for out of town trips. It takes a lot of money to operate a cab service, and if we don't get the riders, we can't operate. If you have any complaints call 474-7122 and ask for Charles Conrad. This price will go into effect July 1st, 1969. You'll have to ride a cab once to see how economical it is.

yet he's hip, he knows what the teen scene is and a lot about its problems and has something to offer as help.

That help is two things: "muve" and Teendrunar. "Muve" is a new way to use written language, to meld it with contemporary problems and today's music. It takes what the Beatles did to and through music one step farther into the words, the lyrics, the thought.

It's a way to be cool by showing "your warm," your feeling for others and for yourself, your love of man and your hope.

And Teendrunar is a rough way to help teen-age dope addicts—the kids who have lost themselves in "speed," LSD and other drugs. It stands for Teen-age Drug and Narcotic Rehabilitation. In psychological jargon, it's peer group corrective therapy.

Whatever you call it, it's spreading; spreading in part because the Rev. Mr. Christensen has spoken recently to about 40,000 high school and junior high students. And there's his just-released Capitol record, "Muve," his first.

The idea spreads by word of mouth, from one troubled teenager to another.

The teen-age dope addicts, or former addicts, meet with a candidate for their group. The members already know every rationalization for taking drugs. And they lay in to the newcomer hard and fast. They tear at him verbally; they break down his defenses; they browbeat him into emotional disruption.

Then one says to him, "You know why we're doing this? It's because we love you, man."

The technique is used by the Synanon rehabilitation center for addicts in Santa Monica, Calif.

That's one of the hard ways. It's not for every addict, but it's working for 70 kids.

There were others for whom the idea came too late. That's when "muve" came forth.

"When I'd run into a case that I couldn't do anything about," the Rev. Mr. Christensen says, "I'd go home at night and start writing to that person. I wanted to reach him, to tell him what a beautiful life he was throwing away."

This kind of story, backed by today's throbbing combination of jazz, rock, blues and folk music, make up the new record.

"It's using music as a sledgehammer to drive the point into the heart," the minister says. "And the message is there's hope, not dope."

The message is: "There's grass growing on Bikini again; not even The Bomb can conquer life." Bikini, an atoll in the Pacific, was blasted bare by atomic bomb tests.

Pigeons Protected By Building Boss

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) —Edward Swart, a foreman on the construction site of the highest building in Africa, now has two extra charges to watch over.

Swart discovered a pigeon nest in the completed 458-foot central tower of Johannesburg's new Standard Bank building, right inside a slot in which workmen were about to fit an 84-ton floor section.

He had himself lowered to move the nest to another slot further down, only to repeat the tricky rescue operation as work proceeded from the top of the tower downwards.

Finally he made the two baby pigeons a home in the tower's storeroom.

Ohio Police, Court Outlays Far Below Nation's Average

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans spent $4.68 apiece on police protection and judicial and correctional activities in 1966-67—a total of $48.5 million—a figure far below national averages.

These figures, compiled from federal statistics, were reported by Dr. Frederick D. Stocker, professor of administrative science, in the latest business research bulletin issued by Ohio State University.

Stocker said this amount was composed of $1.21 for police protection, 43 cents for judicial activities, and $3.04 for correction activities.

"In comparison with other large states of over 10 million population," Dr. Stocker said, "Ohio's state expenditure was low. Only Texas had a lower per capita expenditure."

Dr. Stocker added that because the costs of justice are shared by state and local units, it is important to look not only at state but at county and municipal spending.

He said the census report shows per capita spending for the five largest Ohio counties were: Cuyahoga $5.93, Hamilton $5.25, Franklin $4.05, Montgomery $5.65, and Summit $5.25, all substantially below the national per capita average for large counties.

Dr. Stocker said the census report does not report per capita expenditures for cities, but calculations for Ohio's four largest cities show heavy expenditure.

Harrisburg Calm After 2 Nights Of Disturbances

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—A dusk-to-dawn curfew enforced by police with the assistance of black community leaders cooled racial strife in Pennsylvania's capital Wednesday after two nights of disorders.

With cars and pedestrians off the streets, and businesses closed, the city of 80,000 appeared more like a ghost town.

The disturbances that began Monday night in the integrated Hill section has resulted in the fatal shooting of an 18-year-old Negro youth, 28 persons injured and at least 68 under arrest.

Police Chief Martin L. Watts said "the curfew worked well, and members of the black community did missionary work for us."

The curfew is to remain in effect until Monday.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Philosophers are made, not born. Philosophy flowers on calamities, woes, disasters, mishaps and bereavements. It remains stunted in the presence of endless good fortune, just as a child fails to develop much character if you do everything for it and let it run around all day with a lollipop stuck in its mouth.

Do you aspire to be a philosopher? Fortunately, there are enough troubles in the world—enough vinegar flavor and bitersweet moments in life—to let everybody satisfy this ambition.

Here are a few things that happen which tend to turn any man into a philosopher—or a misanthropic hermit:

Baldness.

Falling arches.

Losing the first red-haired girl in your life to the tallest guy in your kindergarten class.

Being told by older kids that Santa Claus is only your Dad.

Finding ants in a picnic lunch.

Losing your first tooth.

Learning you have mumps the day before you graduate from grammar school.

Discovering your bicycle has been stolen the morning after you got it for Christmas.

Eating spinach because it's supposed to be good for you.

Giving up eating something you like because the doctor tells you it's bad for you.

Losing the second red-haired girl of your life to the tallest guy in your high school freshman class.

Falling off the exercise bars in a schoolyard and landing on your head.

Falling on your face at a cocktail party while showing other guests how easy it is to vault over a sofa.

Getting a ticket for parking too close to a fire hydrant.

Holding ticket numbered 1,312 in a lottery for a new car won ticket numbered 1,313.

Opening your paycheck week after week and finding it contains the same old insulting sum.

Listening to the reading of the last will and testament of your favorite old aunt, and receiving the glad news she has left you only her rocking chair and her pet cat.

Losing the third red-haired girl of your life to the tallest guy on your college basketball team.

Buying a new house in which three days later you come upon a nest of termites.

Becoming a railroad commuter and figuring you'll have to live with train delays for the next 35 years.

Losing the fourth red-haired girl of your life to the tallest junior executive in your firm.

Waking up some day to the fact that your stomach is now at least an inch bigger around than your chest.

Acquiring an ulcer, a wife and a family containing at least two kids who need to have their teeth straightened.

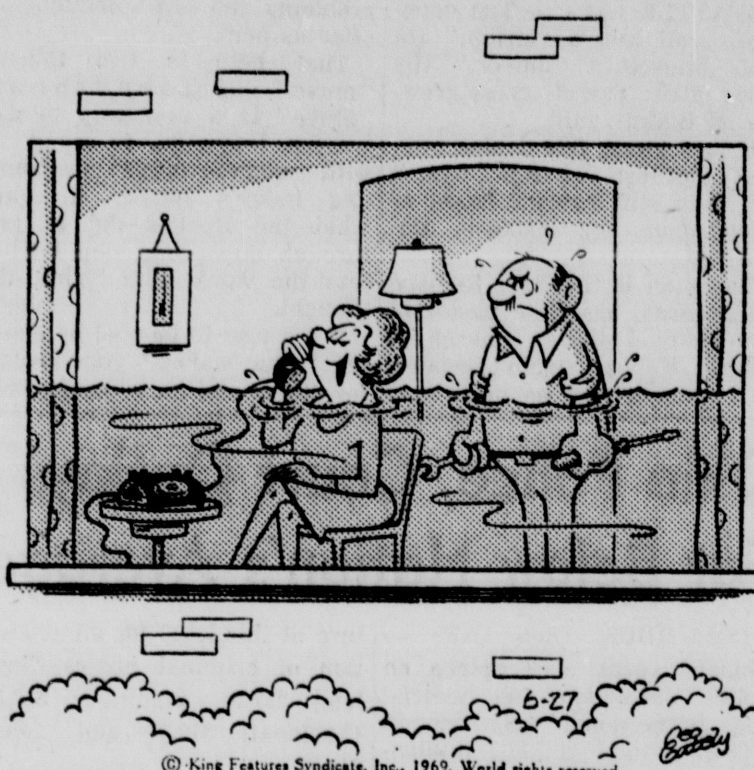

Trying to get accustomed to your first pair of bifocals.

Coming to the grim conclusion that there is no longer any point in even falling secretly in love with any more red-haired girls because most of them your age probably dye their hair anyway.

Yes, it is living that turns a man into a philosopher. He has to become one to survive.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

FELLOW at a neighborhood bar was complaining to all and sundry because his mother-in-law had moved in with him. "I've seen her," consoled a friend, "and she's not bad at all. Worst things could happen to you." "I know," mourned the fellow, "but I wish at least that she had waited till after the ceremony!"

One day last month a rumor spread like wildfire in Norwich, England that the town had an animal that might rival the Loch Ness monster as a tourist attraction. It was nothing less than a Labrador dog with two complete sets of teeth—and a resultant fixed grin that sent observers screaming into the highway. It was then, alas, that the dog's owner turned up to report that his false teeth were missing. His dog had thought they were something extra for breakfast, and they had become lodged in his mouth. He was caught sunning himself outside Cullum's butcher shop, and the teeth, unbroken, returned to where they belonged.

Overheard in a Sarasota medical center:
Doctor: Did you follow my advice and drink hot water one hour before breakfast?
Patient: I did my darnedest, Doctor, but I just couldn't keep it up for more than twenty minutes.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am afflicted with hardening of the arteries and have a tingling sensation in my feet. I am 72 years old and am otherwise in perfect health.

Is there any way to open the arteries, or at least to keep them from further closing?

Mr. E.L.F. Pennsylvania
Dear Mr. F.: Narrowing of the blood vessels due to arteriosclerosis occurs very often in your age group. The symptoms you describe are caused by an inadequate amount of blood flowing to the legs and feet because of the obstruction in narrowed vessels.

There was nothing in your letter about tobacco. If you do smoke, I would like to emphasize that this adds spasm to the already narrowed arteries and further reduces the blood supply to the extremities. All tobacco should be discontinued by anyone who has an impaired circulation, no matter what the other causes may be.

The prevention or retardation of arteriosclerosis probably starts early in life. A diet free from animal fats, and high cholesterol, a well-regulated exercise program and abstinence from tobacco during adolescence and early adulthood probably can reduce the

I burned my hand with boiling water. I am sure that other people do the same while working in their busy kitchens. Is there any ointment or cream that is soothing?

Mrs. M.S., California
Dear Mrs. S.: In recent years we have learned that one of the best home remedies for a burn is to quickly immerse the burned part in ice cold water. This brings almost immediate relief and is said to actually play a role in more rapid healing.

The temptation to cover the burnt part with all sorts of fatty ointments, jellies, and creams is great but should be avoided. Usually a great deal of time is spent by the doctor removing the grease. A good rule of first aid is to do less, rather than more and to do it slowly.

Country Wants The ABM

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, a liberal Republican, says that President Nixon has the votes to win on the Safeguard Anti-Ballistic Missile system in the Senate. The claim, of course, has been disputed by Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Montana Democrat. But when Mansfield went home recently to mend a few political fences, he was surprised by the leph of pro-ABM sentiment at the grassroots.

Indeed, the battle of public opinion has swung dramatically in Nixon's favor on the issue. According to a survey conducted by the prestigious Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, N.J., for a group called the Citizens Committee for Peace with Security, 84 per cent of all Americans think the U.S. should have an ABM system. And three-fourths of the public also think that Congress should approve Nixon's Safeguard proposal. The poll, according to William J. Casey, the New York City attorney who formed the Citizens Committee for Peace with Security, cut across all party lines, with Nixon and Humphrey voters supporting the ABM just about equally. By this token the issue should ease to be a partisan matter in the Senate.

With the tide running out on them, the anti-ABM Senators have been a lot less vociferous of late. The voice of Senator Ted Kennedy of Massachusetts seems particularly muted; he has not been making the welkin ring with indorsements of the anti-ABM volume edited by Dr. Jerome Wiesner and Professor Abram Chayes, who were originally commissioned by Kennedy to put the book together. As a matter of record, Ted Kennedy must find it difficult to reconcile his personal sponsorship of the Wiesner-Chayes volume with the position he held when he was first campaigning for the Senatorial nomination in Massachusetts.

Teddy had been challenged then to state his position on the production of nuclear weapons. His answer was that he did not think "we can afford any kind of stepping back from our strong position of military posture." "When we talk about the United States today stopping production," he said, "I think that this shows a failing of grasping a basic problem... we know that we have a defense only so that we are going to be able to retaliate to make any attack on the United States a suicidal attempt, and therefore it is important that we have this kind of potential force, only so that we are going to be able to retaliate. This has been the posture and the policy of the United States for the last fifteen years, and I think it is essential that we continue it. We have seen with every kind of indication, certainly at Geneva, every attempt we have made we have failed to be able to come up with any kind of good faith on the part of the Soviets... we should maintain our strength."

It can be argued, of course, that the ABM is not essential to protect the U.S. ability to retaliate in case of a Soviet "first strike." But if the case can once be made that the Safeguard program will contribute to the deterrence of nuclear war and also lead to meaningful arms talks with the Soviet Union, Kennedy must logically withdraw his objections to it. After all, his brother John F. Kennedy once said that "First... we must take immediate steps to protect our present nuclear force from surprise attack." The seeming Kennedy desertion of the "maintenance of our strength" position is a late blooming phenomenon: if the country as a whole feels uneasy about the recent Soviet surge in the production of three-headed nuclear monster missiles, which has gone hand in hand with the deployment of a Russian anti-ballistic missile protective grid, Ted Kennedy's pragmatic instincts as a politician must take over. He can't afford to be caught short in 1972 in case the Soviets do not prove amenable to the idea of limiting the arms race in both offensive and defensive atomic weapons.

In the "battle of the books," the anti-ABM crowd is at least two years behind the times. The Kennedy-sponsored volume published by Harper and Row, says that we don't need the ABM for bargaining with the Soviets because "we are in... a moment of rare and precarious strategic balance." But the booklet called "The ABM and the Changed Strategic Military Balance, U.S.A. Vs. U.S.S.R.," issued recently by the National Strategy Committee of the American Security Council, says the Russians went ahead of us in strategic missile power two years ago. The "strategic balance" has shifted to Moscow, and Teddy Kennedy can hardly accept that with equanimity.

Mike Maitland

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —He has the build and bearing of a pro football player, yet Mike Maitland declares: "In this business I'm considered an old man. I'm 48 and that puts me far on the other side of the generation gap."

"This business" is the pop music field, which gets younger all the time. Yet despite Maitland's advanced age, he has been able to manage one of the most successful operations in the industry—Warner Brothers-Seven Arts Records.

All the big film companies have record divisions but none were more successful than Warner Brothers-Seven Arts. Last year total music operation grossed $46 million, up from $25.5 million. In the fast-changing field of today's music that is no small accomplishment.

When Maitland came to Warner Brothers Records (before the merger with Seven Arts) eight years ago, the operation was three years old and its principal assets were the Everly Brothers.

"The company had been doing well by putting out albums at a time when almost any album would sell," he explained. "Then a change took place in the industry. The public became more selective, and Warner Brothers records was caught in the squeeze."

Enter John K. "Mike" Maitland, Detroit-born, graduate of Washington University at St. Louis, U.S. Air Force and Capitol Records. Within six months he had come across a trio of folk singers, Peter, Paul and Mary, who exploded on the record scene.

Maitland discovered a fat man who used to sing parodies at parties. Allan Sherman delivered Jewish versions of standard songs and became a record sensation. Next came the button-downed comedies of Bob Newhart, a big success. An even bigger seller has been Bill Cosby— "He's in the Tijuana Brass class; five of his albums have sold over a million and a quarter units, and six will soon do so."

Maitland admitted that Warner Brothers was becoming known as a comedy house, and he sought to diversify. A major change came in 1965, when Warner Brothers took over Reprise Records in a deal which involved founder Frank Sinatra's services in films.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — For the 28th straight month the consumer price index has continued to rise, and now something like 19 cents has been pared from the dollar bill during the Soaring Sixties.

The dollar has been pared, in fact, like a big potato, and now you have to toss in a lot more of them to make the same stew.

This is the calamity of the great, 100-month-old economic climb. At its beginning almost every American benefited. But now the average worker is barely keeping even, despite his hefty pay raises.

Labor Department statistics confirm the odd feeling of many people that they are astride a wave going nowhere. The weekly purchasing power of an average worker with three dependents was $78.23 in May. A year earlier it was $73.47.

One effect of the declining dollar value is to produce husband-wife squabbles all over the country, with the husband refusing to believe that his hard work produces so few groceries.

The disputes are likely to get more abrasive now, for some of the more recent increases are especially noticeable. Meat prices, for example, are rising, and American families love meat, consuming more than 35 billion pounds a year.

Inflation alone is not the only magician in the disappearing act. There has been an explosion of taxes in America also—by towns for sewers, by states for highways, by the federal government for various commitments.

What have the increases in living costs done to your dollar? Let us assume that in 1960 the dollar was worth 100 cents. Perhaps it really wasn't worth that compared with 1940, for example, but let us make the assumption.

In 1961 that value of 100 cents was down 1.1 per cent to 98.9. The same loss was recorded in 1962, dropping the value to 98.8 cents compared with 1960.

The fall continued in 1963, but at about the same relatively slow rate, and by the end of the year the dollar bought 96.6 per cent of the goods and services it would have bought in 1960. Another 1.2 cent drop in 1964 reduced the value to 95.4.

These decreases were hardly anything to worry about. They were, in fact, among the lowest declines for any currency in the industrialized world. They reflected stability rather than dangerous inflation.

But then inflation did set in, and it cannot be ignored that it dug itself into the economy at the very time the country was digging itself into Vietnam. Military costs were a significant contributor.

An acceleration in the decline first became noticeable in 1965, when 1.6 cents was shaved from the dollar. In the following year the loss jumped to 2.6 cents. By the end of 1967 another 1.8 per cent was lost and the dollar read 89.4.

The decline rose to a whopping 3.6 cents last year, and the dollar closed the year with a reading of only 85.8 cents compared with 1960.

Through the first quarter of 1969 the loss was the sharpest for any similar period in the Soaring Sixties, amounting to 2.4 cents and dropping the dollar to 83.4 cents.

When the figures for the three months ending with June are compiled, very likely they will show a similar amount lost.

This is not a comforting story, but don't forget either: That dollar still is the envy of hundreds of millions of people throughout the world, many of whom would be happy to have dollars worth only 50 per cent of the 1960 value.

Urge Destruction Of Obsolete Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists have recommended the Army destroy 27,000 tons of obsolete chemical munitions on government installations rather than haul the material across the country for burial at sea.

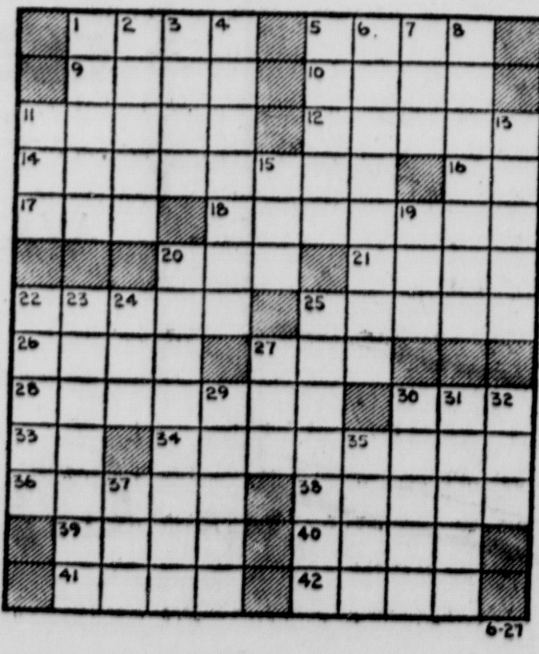

A 12-man committee of the National Academy of Sciences said Wednesday some of the agents could be dumped into the sea if there were no better means. However it suggested chemical means, burning or demolition as better methods.

The recommendations should be carefully studied by the Army and "appropriate action" should be taken, said Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird. An aide said this means Laird wants the Army to follow the committee's suggestions.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

FELLOW at a neighborhood bar was complaining to all and sundry because his mother-in-law had moved in with him. "I've seen her," consoled a friend, "and she's not bad at all. Worse things could happen to you." "I know," mourned the fellow, "but I wish at least that she had waited till after the ceremony!"

One day last month a rumor spread like wildfire in Norwich, England that the town had an animal that might rival the Loch Ness monster as a tourist attraction. It was nothing less than a Labrador dog with two complete sets of teeth and a resultant fixed grin that sent observers screaming into the highway. It was then, alas, that the dog's owner turned up to report that his false teeth were missing. His dog had thought they were something extra for breakfast, and they had become lodged in his mouth. He was caught sunning himself outside Collum's butcher shop, and the teeth, unbroken, returned to where they belonged.

Overheard in a Sarasota medical center:
Doctor: Did you follow my advice and drink hot water one hour before breakfast?
Patient: I did my damndest, Doctor, but I just couldn't keep it up for more than twenty minutes.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am afflicted with hardening of the arteries and have a tingling sensation in my feet. I am 72 years old and am otherwise in perfect health.

Is there any way to open the arteries, or at least to keep them from further closing?

Mr. F.L.F. Pennsylvania
Dear Mr. F.: Narrowing of the blood vessels due to arteriosclerosis occurs very often in your age group. The symptoms you describe are caused by an inadequate amount of blood flowing to the legs and feet because of the obstruction in narrowed vessels.

There was nothing in your letter about tobacco. If you do smoke, I would like to emphasize that this adds spasm to the already narrowed arteries and further reduces the blood supply to the extremities. All tobacco should be discontinued by anyone who has an impaired circulation, no matter what the other causes may be.

The prevention or retardation of arteriosclerosis probably starts early in life. A diet free from animal fats; and high cholesterol, a well-regulated exercise program and abstinence from tobacco during adolescence and early adulthood probably can reduce the possibility of severe arteriosclerosis in the adult. When once these changes and deposits of calcium on the inner linings of the arteries occur, there is little chance of reversing the condition. A number of drugs known as vasodilators are said to widen the arteries to help increase the flow. My own experience with them has been disappointing but, certainly, if your own physician thinks they should be tried, it is worth it.

Do you mind if I answer another related letter from a woman whose husband gave up smoking after I had suggested it in a previous column. Apparently, he had been suffering from painful spasms of the feet after walking a short distance. Now her problem is that he has substituted chewing tobacco and wants to know if this, too, is harmful.

I must confess that I do not know whether there is as much toxic absorption of the by-products of smoking tobacco as there is in chewing it. That which I do know is that it is a thoroughly unpleasant experience to watch the cycle of chewing and the spitting of brown juices. There are few more ungracious and asocial habits than this one. I cannot resist interjecting the thought that I never did appreciate that so many baseball idols of America's young children perform their athletic prowess with a globful of tobacco in their TV magnified faces.

I burned my hand with boiling water. I am sure that other people do the same while working in their busy kitchens. Is there any ointment or cream that is soothing?

Mrs. M.S., California
Dear Mrs. S.: In recent years we have learned that one of the best home remedies for a burn is to quickly immerse the burned part in ice cold water. This brings almost immediate relief and is said to actually play a role in more rapid healing.

The temptation to cover the burnt part with all sorts of fatty ointments, jellies, and creams is great but should be avoided. Usually a great deal of time is spent by the doctor removing the grease. A good rule of first aid is to do less, rather than more and to do it slowly.

Country Wants The ABM

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, a liberal Republican, says that President Nixon has the votes to win on the Safeguard Anti-Ballistic Missile system in the Senate. The claim, of course, has been disputed by Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Montana Democrat. But when Mansfield went home recently to mend a few political fences, he was surprised by the leph of pro-ABM sentiment at the grassroots.

Indeed, the battle of public opinion has swung dramatically in Nixon's favor on the issue. According to a survey conducted by the prestigious Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, N.J., for a group called the Citizens Committee for Peace with Security, 84 per cent of all Americans think the U.S. should have an ABM system. And three-fourths of the public also think that Congress should approve Nixon's Safeguard proposal. The poll, according to William J. Casey, the New York City attorney who formed the Citizens Committee for Peace with Security, cut across all party lines, with Nixon and Humphrey voters supporting the ABM just about equally. By this token the issue should ease to be a partisan matter in the Senate.

With the tide running out on them, the anti-ABM Senators have been a lot less vociferous of late. The voice of Senator Ted Kennedy of Massachusetts seems particularly muted; he has not been making the welkin ring with indorsements of the anti-ABM volume edited by Dr. Jerome Wiesner and Professor Abram Chayes, who were originally commissioned by Kennedy to put the book together. As a matter of record, Ted Kennedy must find it difficult to reconcile his personal sponsorship of the Wiesner-Chayes volume with the position he held when he was first campaigning for the Senatorial nomination in Massachusetts.

Teddy had been challenged then to state his position on the production of nuclear weapons. His answer was that he did not think "we can afford any kind of stepping back from our strong position of military posture." "When we talk about the United States today stopping production," he said, "I think that this shows a failing of grasping a basic problem... we know that we have a defense only so that we are going to be able to retaliate to make any attack on the United States a suicidal attempt, and therefore it is important that we have this kind of potential force, only so that we are going to be able to retaliate. This has been the posture and the policy of the United States for the last fifteen years, and I think it is essential that we continue it. We have seen with every kind of indication, certainly at Geneva, every attempt we have made we have failed to be able to come up with any kind of good faith on the part of the Soviets... we should maintain our strength."

It can be argued, of course, that the ABM is not essential to protect the U.S. ability to retaliate in case of a Soviet "first strike." But if the case can once be made that the Safeguard program will contribute to the deterrence of nuclear war and also lead to meaningful arms talks with the Soviet Union, Kennedy must logically withdraw his objections to it. After all, his brother John F. Kennedy once said that "First... we must take immediate steps to protect our present nuclear force from surprise attack." The seeming Kennedy desertion of the "maintenance of our strength" position is a late blooming phenomenon: if the country as a whole feels uneasy about the recent Soviet surge in the production of three-headed nuclear monster missiles, which has gone hand in hand with the deployment of a Russian anti-ballistic missile protective grid, Ted Kennedy's pragmatic instincts as a politician must take over. He can't afford to be caught short in 1972 in case the Soviets do not prove amenable to the idea of limiting the arms race in both offensive and defensive atomic weapons.

In the "battle of the books," the anti-ABM crowd is at least two years behind the times. The Kennedy-sponsored volume published by Harper and Row, says that we don't need the ABM for bargaining with the Soviets because "we are in... a moment of rare and precarious strategic balance." But the booklet called "The ABM and the Changed Strategic Military Balance, U.S.A. Vs. U.S.S.R.," issued recently by the National Strategy Committee of the American Security Council, says the Russians went ahead of us in strategic missile power two years ago. The "strategic balance" has shifted to Moscow, and Ted Kennedy can hardly accept that with equanimity.

Mike Maitland

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He has the build and bearing of a pro football player, yet Mike Maitland declares: "In this business I'm considered an old man, I'm 48 and that puts me far on the other side of the generation gap."

"This business" is the pop music field, which gets younger all the time. Yet despite Maitland's advanced age, he has been able to manage one of the most successful operations in the industry—Warner Brothers-Seven Arts Records.

All the big film companies have record divisions but none were more successful than Warner—Seven Arts. Last year total music operation grossed $46 million, up from $25.5 million. In the fast-changing field of today's music that is no small accomplishment.

When Maitland came to Warner Brothers Records (before the merger with Seven Arts) eight years ago, the operation was three years old and its principal assets were the Everly Brothers.

"The company had been doing well by putting out albums at a time when almost any album would sell," he explained. "Then a change took place in the industry. The public became more selective, and Warner Brothers records were caught in the squeeze."

Enter John K. "Mike" Maitland, Detroit-born, graduate of Washington University at St. Louis, U.S. Air Force and Capitol Records. Within six months he had come across a trio of folk singers, Peter, Paul and Mary, who exploded on the record scene.

Maitland discovered a fat man who used to sing parodies at parties. Allan Sherman delivered Jewish versions of standard songs and became a record sensation. Next came the buttoned-down comedies of Bob Newhart, a big success. An even bigger seller has been Bill Cosby— "He's in the Tijuana Brass class; five of his albums have sold over a million and a quarter units, and asixth will soon do so."

Maitland admitted that Warner Brothers was becoming known as a comedy house, and he sought to diversify. A major change came in 1965, when Warner Brothers took over Reprise Records in a deal which involved founder Frank Sinatra's services in films.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — For the 28th straight month the consumer price index has continued to rise, and now something like 19 cents has been pared from the dollar bill during the Soaring Sixties.

The dollar has been pared, in fact, like a big potato, and now you have to toss in a lot more of them to make the same stew.

This is the calamity of the great, 100-month-old economic climb. At its beginning almost every American benefited. But now the average worker is barely keeping even, despite his hefty pay raises.

Labor Department statistics confirm the odd feeling of many people that they are astride a wave going nowhere. The weekly purchasing power of an average worker with three dependents was $78.23 in May. A year earlier it was $73.47.

One effect of the declining dollar value is to produce husband-wife squabbles all over the country, with the husband refusing to believe that his hard work produces so few groceries.

The disputes are likely to get more abrasive now, for some of the more recent increases are especially noticeable. Meat prices, for example, are rising, and American families love meat, consuming more than 35 billion pounds a year.

Inflation alone is not the only magician in the disappearing act. There has been an explosion of taxes in America also—by towns for sewers, by states for highways, by the federal government for various commitments.

What have the increases in living costs done to your dollar? Let us assume that in 1960 the dollar was worth 100 cents. Perhaps it really wasn't worth that compared with 1940, for example, but let us make the assumption.

In 1961 that value of 100 cents was down 1.1 per cent to 98.9. The same loss was recorded in 1962, dropping the value to 98.8 cents compared with 1960.

The fall continued in 1963, but at about the same relatively slow rate, and by the end of the year the dollar bought 96.6 per cent of the goods and services it would have bought in 1960. Another 1.2 cent drop in 1964 reduced the value to 95.4.

These decreases were hardly anything to worry about. They were, in fact, among the lowest declines for any currency in the industrialized world. They reflected stability rather than dangerous inflation.

But then inflation did set in, and it cannot be ignored that it dug itself into the economy at the very time the country was digging itself into Vietnam. Military costs were a significant contributor.

An acceleration in the decline first became noticeable in 1965, when 1.6 cents was shaved from the dollar. In the following year the loss jumped to 2.6 cents. By the end of 1967 another 1.8 per cent was lost and the dollar read 93.4.

The decline rose to a whopping 3.6 cents last year, and the dollar closed the year with a reading of only 89.8 cents compared with 1960.

Through the first quarter of 1969 the loss was the sharpest for any similar period in the Soaring Sixties, amounting to 2.4 cents and dropping the dollar to 87.4 cents.

When the figures for the three months ending with June are compiled, very likely they will show a similar amount lost.

This is not a comforting story, but don't forget either: That dollar still is the envy of hundreds of millions of people throughout the world, many of whom would be happy to have dollars worth only 50 per cent of the 1960 value.

Urges Destruction Of Obsolete Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists have recommended the Army destroy 27,000 tons of obsolete chemical munitions on government installations rather than haul the material across the country for burial at sea.

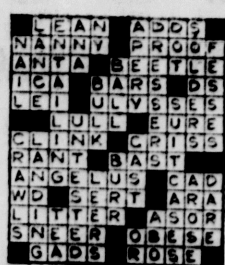

A 12-man committee of the National Academy of Sciences said Wednesday some of the agents could be dumped into the sea if there were no better means. However it suggested chemical means, burning or demolition as better methods.

The recommendations should be carefully studied by the Army and "appropriate action" should be taken, said Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird. An aide said this means Laird wants the Army to follow the committee's suggestions.

Set Crackdown On Deserters

By BOB HORTON

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird will seek changes in military law to make one month's unauthorized absence by a serviceman evidence of intent to desert.

This, it was learned, is the Pentagon's major approach in plans to crack down on deserters and answer congressional criticism of being too lenient on them.

The question of intent is vital in getting desertion convictions against men accused of leaving their military posts without permission for prolonged periods. It is too difficult to prove that most men get off with the lesser charge of AWOL—away without leave.

As the Uniform Code of Military Justice now stands, no matter how long a serviceman is AWOL, that in itself is not enough to support a desertion conviction. It must be shown that he intended to stay away from his post or shirk hazardous duty permanently.

Laird's move responds to an earlier special Senate subcommittee report. It accused the Pentagon of a lack of concern and failure to deal sternly with the thousands of uniformed men going AWOL each year, many to such places as Sweden and Canada.

Subcommittee figures showed the military services "administratively classified" 53,357 men as deserters in the year ending June 30, 1968. Based on past experiences fewer than 1 per cent of these individuals are ever actually convicted of desertion.

Laird, in a June 5 letter to

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, subcommittee chairman, said the Pentagon is drawing up a legislative proposal to make long periods of unauthorized absence evidence a serviceman is trying to desert.

Maximum sentence for desertion when there has been no declaration of war, as in the case of Vietnam, is dishonorable discharge, loss of pay and other benefits and five years hard labor. During an official war the offense can be punishable by death.

The lesser AWOL offense carries maximum punishment of dishonorable discharge, loss of pay and one year's hard labor in prison.

Laird's letter, provided to the Associated Press, outlined measures the Pentagon is taking or planning in response to the subcommittee's recommendations on the desertion problem.

Laird said the Pentagon and the State Department are working toward "improved reporting procedures" to keep military authorities posted on what deserters do while they remain in such havens as Sweden.

The subcommittee observed unless the military justice people are fully informed of a deserter's activities, he will escape punishment for such additional offenses as engaging in anti-U.S. propaganda and other acts condemning U.S. government policy.

Laird denied, as the subcommittee contended, the Pentagon has a policy of being lenient toward deserters to entice them to return to U.S. military control.

U.S. And Russia Disagree On Control Of Peace Teams

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — If U.N. military observers go to Vietnam or Biafra to oversee any cease-fire, should they report to the secretary-general as they do now or to a committee of the Security Council?

The United States wants them to be directed by the secretary-general. The Soviet Union wants them to be responsible to the Security Council.

The disagreement surfaced today in proposals to the U.N. Special Committee on Peacekeeping Operations which is drafting guidelines for observers. It will have to be resolved before the committee's report is prepared Aug. 18 for the General Assembly.

The U.S. working paper calls for "a clear line of control from the authorizing political organ," the council, "through the secretary-general to the field."

This is the system under which U.N. observers on the cease-fire lines in the Middle East now operate, with Norwegian Lt. Gen. Odd Bull reporting to Secretary-General U Thant.

But the Soviet Union wants a change, remembering its 1960-61 dispute with former Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld over the U.N. peacekeeping force in the Congo.

The Soviets said: "The general direction of the observers shall be carried out by the Military Staff Committee of the Security Council." Their working paper added that the council also should establish a special organization directly subordinate to it "for the direction of the operations of its military observers."

In addition, it recommended "balanced political and equitable geographical representation" in the military observer groups to include Soviet-bloc countries.

Yugoslavia, classified here as nonaligned, is the only Communist nation that has had men in any of the six U.N. observation missions sent to world trouble spots. Two of the six are still operating the one in the Middle East, and one in India and Pakistan, both formed in 1949.

Alcoholism Linked With Lung Disease

MELBOURNE (AP) — Study by Melbourne University and Melbourne's St. Vincent's Hospital suggests a link between alcoholism, smoking and lung disease.

A study team found that chronic obstructive lung disease was a characteristic illness of the alcoholic, particularly those who smoke.

The report, published in the latest issue of the Medical Journal of Australia, also found that alcoholics were twice as likely to be smokers as nonalcoholics.

"The results have shown that chronic obstructive lung disease is the characteristic pulmonary illness of the alcoholic," the Journal report said. "As with the nonalcoholic, it is related to smoking habits and social class."

"The higher frequency of chronic bronchitis in alcoholics than in nonalcoholics can be explained by alcoholics being twice as likely to be smokers as the nonalcoholics. Unfortunately, despite their high risk of chronic bronchitis, alcoholics appear less able than nonalcoholics to stop smoking."

For this reason, the report said, there seemed little chance of reducing disease among these people.

Officer Slays Would-Be Bandit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 19-year-old youth making his second trip to rob a Lawson Milk Co store was shot and killed Thursday night by an off-duty Cleveland policeman during his first night as part-time guard at the store.

Patrolman John W. Stanz fired several shots at the youth, wearing a stocking mask, who, kicked in a rear screen door, pointed a gun at Stanz and said: "Don't anybody move."

Police said the gunman was identified from a driver's license and a police photo as Steve R. Hollon, Cleveland, free on $2,500 bond in the robbery of another Lawson store last November.

Set Crackdown On Deserters

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird will seek changes in military law to make one month's unauthorized absence by a serviceman evidence of intention to desert.

This, it was learned, is the Pentagon's major approach in plans to crack down on deserters and answer congressional criticism of being too lenient on them.

The question of intent is vital in getting desertion convictions against men accused of leaving their military posts without permission for prolonged periods. It is too difficult to prove that most men get off with the lesser charge of AWOL—away without leave.

As the Uniform Code of Military Justice now stands, no matter how long a serviceman is AWOL, that in itself is not enough to support a desertion conviction. It must be shown that he intended to stay away from his post or shirk hazardous duty permanently.

Laird's move responds to an earlier special Senate subcommittee report. It accused the Pentagon of a lack of concern and failure to deal sternly with the thousands of uniformed men going AWOL each year, many to such places as Sweden and Canada.

Subcommittee figures showed the military services "administratively classified" 53,357 men as deserters in the year ending June 30, 1968. Based on past experiences fewer than 1 per cent of these individuals are ever actually convicted of desertion.

Laird, in a June 5 letter to

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, subcommittee chairman, said the Pentagon is drawing up a legislative proposal to make long periods of unauthorized absence evidence a serviceman is trying to desert.

Maximum sentence for desertion when there has been no declaration of war, as in the case of Vietnam, is dishonorable discharge, loss of pay and other benefits and five years hard labor. During an official war the offense can be punishable by death.

The lesser AWOL offense carries maximum punishment of dishonorable discharge, loss of pay and one year's hard labor in prison.

Laird's letter, provided to the Associated Press, outlined measures the Pentagon is taking or planning in response to the subcommittee's recommendations on the desertion problem.

Laird said the Pentagon and the State Department are working toward "improved reporting procedures" to keep military authorities posted on what deserters do while they remain in such havens as Sweden.

The subcommittee observed unless the military justice people are fully informed of a deserter's activities, he will escape punishment for such additional offenses as engaging in anti-U.S. propaganda and other acts condemning U.S. government policy.

Laird denied, as the subcommittee contended, the Pentagon has a policy of being lenient toward deserters to entice them to return to U.S. military control.

U.S. And Russia Disagree On Control Of Peace Teams

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — If U.N. military observers go to Vietnam or Biafra to oversee any cease-fire, should they report to the secretary-general as they do now or to a committee of the Security Council?

The United States wants them to be directed by the secretary-general. The Soviet Union wants them to be responsible to the Security Council.

The disagreement surfaced today in proposals to the U.N. Special Committee on Peacekeeping Operations which is drafting guidelines for observers. It will have to be resolved before the committee's report is prepared Aug. 18 for the General Assembly.

The U.S. working paper calls for "a clear line of control from the authorizing political organ," the council, "through the secretary-general to the field." This is the system under which U.N. observers on the cease-fire lines in the Middle East now operate, with Norwegian Lt. Gen. Odd Bull reporting to Secretary-General U Thant.

But the Soviet Union wants a change, remembering its 1960-61 dispute with former Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld over the U.N. peacekeeping force in the Congo.

The Soviets said: "The general direction of the observers shall be carried out by the Military Staff Committee of the Security Council." Their working paper added that the council also should establish a special organization directly subordinate to it "for the direction of the operations of its military observers."

In addition, it recommended "balanced political and equitable geographical representation" in the military observer groups to include Soviet-bloc countries.

Yugoslavia, classified here as nonaligned, is the only Communist nation that has had men in any of the six U.N. observation missions sent to world trouble spots. Two of the six are still operating the one in the Middle East, and one in India and Pakistan, both formed in 1949.

Alcoholism Linked With Lung Disease
MELBOURNE (AP) — Study by Melbourne University and Melbourne's St. Vincent's Hospital suggests a link between alcoholism, smoking and lung disease.

A study team found that chronic obstructive lung disease was a characteristic illness of the alcoholic, particularly those who smoke. The report, published in the latest issue of the Medical Journal of Australia, also found that alcoholics were twice as likely to be smokers as nonalcoholics.

"The results have shown that chronic obstructive lung disease is the characteristic pulmonary illness of the alcoholic," the Journal report said. "As with the nonalcoholic, it is related to smoking habits and social class."

"The higher frequency of chronic bronchitis in alcoholics than in nonalcoholics can be explained by alcoholics being twice as likely to be smokers as the nonalcoholics. Unfortunately, despite their high risk of chronic bronchitis, alcoholics appear less able than nonalcoholics to stop smoking."

For this reason, the report said, there seemed little chance of reducing disease among these people.

Officer Slays Would-Be Bandit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 19-year-old youth making his second trip to rob a Lawson Milk Co store was shot and killed Thursday night by an off-duty Cleveland policeman during his first night as part-time guard at the store.

Patrolman John W. Stanz fired several shots at the youth, wearing a stocking mask, who, kicked in a rear screen door, pointed a gun at Stanz and said: "Don't anybody move." Police said the gunman was identified from a driver's license and a police photo as Steve R. Hollon, Cleveland, free on $2,500 bond in the robbery of another Lawson store last November.

'Body Jewelry' Is Shown By Designer Kenneth Lane

By LYNN SHERR
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Come September, ladies may have to admit that getting dressed for a party is like girding for battle.

And they may toss out their delicate velvet jewelry chests for clunky metal trunks.

The reason is "bodyware"—a curious combination of Arthurian armor and delicate costume jewelry which is meant to be worn over—or under—fashion's nude, transparent, or just plain opaque looks.

Bodyware includes vests of chain or colored stones, belts that dangle at least six inches below the hips, bracelets that cuff the wrists, pearl-studded breastplates and bib-necklaces.

Designer Kenneth Jay Lane admitted that a woman "has to be beautiful" to wear the styles which might pinch a flabby back or midriff.

He made his comments after a minishowing this week of several pounds of his baubles piled upon one beautiful woman and one careful man.

Steven Brody, one of the designers of the Cadore costume jewelry collection, suggested that the new hardware is "accessories, not jewelry."

He said the real beauty of his firm's body shields and sleeve jewelry—chains and stones to replace, or wear on top of, long sleeves—was to update an old dress.

"You can put one of these on and change the look of yesterday's little black dress," he said.

With ropes of pearls staging their biggest comeback since the '30s many jewelry designers have decorated bodyware with individual pearls as big as marbles.

Stanley Conheim, of Sharon Manufacturing, showed a version of a jewelry skirt at the annual S w a r o v s k i Jewelry Awards. It was a belt of rhinestones, with rhinestone tassels that hung like a grass skirt from the waist.

And just in case the new armor does not do the trick, Cadore has updated the cane into a jeweled walking stick—with good-luck amulets and a sturdy tip for swatting at offenders.

Her headpiece was a four tiered elbow length veil of bridal illusion held with a crown of seed pearls and crystals. It's your privilege ...

Here in America no one tells you that you have to work. Of course, when you do, you and your family enjoy self-respect as well as material benefits.

No one tells you, either, when or how you must play. But, when you take time for occasional recreation, you become refreshed, alert and ready for more work.

And no one tells you that you must worship the Lord, your God, regularly. But, when you do, you and your family are immeasurably blessed.

His mercy and loving-kindness will embrace your life. Knowledge of His infinite goodness and confidence in His eternal vigilance and love will sustain you at all times.

These blessings, and more, are yours so long as you keep alive the glorious American privileges of freedom to work, play and worship as you choose.

GOD'S CONTINUING ENCOUNTER WITH THE SOCIAL ORDER

Scripture—Isaiah 5:16-25; Hosea 12:6-9; Luke 4:16-21; James 2:1-9.

By R. H. RAMSEY

TODAY'S lesson has one theme: the virtue of compassion for the poor and the wickedness of people who ignore, or worse, despise the poor. This matter of the poor is given a great deal of attention in the early laws of Israel, again in the prophets, in the teachings of our Lord, and especially in the consideration for the poor in the early Church and in the writings of St. James.

Three towns are known as the earthly homes of Jesus. Bethlehem, where He was born; Nazareth, where He grew up, and Capernaum, where He chose to dwell during His adulthood.

Soon after the beginning of His public ministry, Jesus returned to Nazareth. As was His custom, He attended the religious services in the local synagogue. His new fame as a teacher had preceded Him to Nazareth and this gave Him an opportunity to teach in His hometown. Thus it was that He read one of the Messianic prophecies from the book of the prophet Isaiah and declared it fulfilled in Himself.

He had been anointed to of the "royal law" reiterated by Christ, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." (Matthew 22:39).

In the same way He came to bring liberty to those suffering from injustice and inequity. They are freed from oppression because men truly transformed by Christ no longer oppress, or because in Christ they have found joy even in oppression.

Now let us turn to the same prophet whose words Jesus read in the Nazareth synagogue. The verses assigned to this lesson occur in a context where the prophet condemns the people of Israel for their oppression and injustice. He mentions the abuses of the rich, addition to strong drink, and condemns the affluent life with its music, entertainment and indulgence while there is exploitation of their fellowman and an utter unforgetfulness of God and the moral principles of the Law. In their desire for gain, they drew sin along behind them. Steeped in iniquity and ungodliness, they challenged God to do anything about the situation.

In every generation God's condemnation has been poured out upon the self-righteous and preach the gospel to the poor, to those destitute of worldly wealth who had no way of securing it for themselves. Before Jesus came into the world there was little good news for these people, for the world—then as now—preferred to minister to those who are able to pay.

As the great physician, Jesus was a balm for the brokenhearted, proclaiming deliverance to the captives. Many who heard Him felt trapped by conditions and circumstances beyond their control. Some were victims of physical defects and deformities; others were enslaved by harmful habits, but most were simply poor and without hope.

His message that human values are not determined by such things as wealth, position, color or national origin made thousands of nameless nobodies followers of Christ. Jesus was able to restore the sight of the physically blind, but even this miracle pales beside the moral healing of those figuratively blinded by prejudice, selfishness, hatred, animosity and fear. This is the real meaning

Dear Abby: She's Trapped, Can't Forgive

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The lady signed "TRAPPED," who discovered that her husband had been unfaithful after 25 years, could have been written by my mother, only she and Dad have been married only 19 years.

About three months ago she caught Daddy in a situation like that. She says there will be no divorce because of our religion, but she had locked him out of their bedroom, and now Daddy sleeps with my little brother.

Dad has begged Mom to give him another chance, but she won't. I am the oldest (18) but I am mature enough to know that any woman who is "TRAPPED" because she can't forgive, has trapped herself.

JACKSONVILLE
DEAR JACKSONVILLE: You may be young, but you are very wise.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Trapped" that she is not alone. After 18 years of marriage, my husband had his fling. The next six months were torture. (The only good part of it was I lost 25 pounds which gave me back the figure I had when we were married.)

I didn't run to a lawyer. I went to a doctor for my nerves, and we had a long talk. I found out that part of the fault was mine. In raising our children, I was so busy being a good mother, I had forgotten how to be a good wife. I also let them get me down, yelled a lot and was irritable and grumpy much of the time.

I made up my mind to change. I learned to make up my face like a movie star, got a new hair-style, and bought some sharp clothes. I really concentrated on pleasing my husband, and I made a play for him all over again. It worked!

White was indicted on four counts of perjury for allegedly lying under oath about their knowledge of the examinations and also for one count for destruction of public records—the examination records. He pleaded innocent at his arraignment and was released on $1,000 personal bond.

Butts was indicted on two counts of perjury and two counts of destruction of records. His arraignment was expected today.

Mrs. Wells said there was a bear in her garage.

3 Plane Crash Survivors Rescued From Wild Area

CEDAR CITY, Utah (AP) — Three survivors of a weekend plane crash which killed three companions have been rescued from the wild Cedar Breaks mountain area of southern Utah.

Volunteer ground searchers Wednesday found David L. Watson, 44, who was trying to walk to civilization for help. A helicopter picked up Oswald Simon, 38, and Robert L. McCord Jr., 31, who had spent three days and nights at the scene of the crash.

The dead were John Bury, 42, the pilot; Clarence McLean, 60, and Charles Straumer, 33.

The six, all Californians, came to Utah to film episodes of the "Death Valley Days" series. They left Cedar City in a rented plane Sunday for a sightseeing excursion.

The plane, heading up a canyon, was unable to clear an 11,000-foot cliff. The pilot attempted to land in a small clearing on the slope of the timbered mountain.

"We hit the trees," said Watson. He was thrown clear of the wreckage and suffered cuts, bruises and a cracked vertebrae.

Watson said he built a fire with the only three matches they could find and the three survivors waited out Sunday night.

Just before daybreak Monday, Watson decided to go for help, following a creek downstream. Monday night he slept on a bed of pine cones, Tuesday night he slept in mud, "because I couldn't get out."

"NOT TRAPPED"

DEAR ABBY: Can you offer some advice as to whether or not it would be less of a strain on the family to have a simple graveside burial instead of the regular funeral service under certain circumstances?

I think it would be in very bad taste for me, who has disgraced my family like I have, to have a regular funeral service. I have been told that I have about a year to live. No more, and maybe less, so I must make a decision.

I have no friends or family who would want to be my pallbearers, and I wouldn't embarrass anyone by asking them. Thank you, for any help you can give me.

NO NAME OR TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Talk this over with your clergyman. He will guide you. If you have no clergyman, seek advice from the clergyman closest to your family.

DEAR ABBY: I am still laughing about something that happened this morning. The character who gave me that laugh sounds like someone who'd write to you.

I am a switchboard operator for the Telephone Company. When I answered a call this morning there was no response on the other end of the line. After I said, "Good morning, this is the Telephone Company" for the third time, I heard a somewhat embarrassed little female voice ask, "Is this REALLY the Telephone Company?"

I assured her that it was, and asked her to whom she wanted to speak.

She replied, "Nobody, I guess. I just found this number in my husband's coat pocket."

Senate OKs State Budget, Takes Over Control Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The administration's $4.1 billion budget was approved by the Senate Finance Committee Thursday with an amendment to give the legislature control of the State Controlling Board.

The full Senate is expected to vote on the measure Monday. The budget was approved by the House but the representatives will have to vote on the amendment.

Firm Buys Land Next To Freeway

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—Tacan Corp., of which the Hamilton County Republican chairman, is assistant secretary, has purchased a 154-acre package at the site of the interchange of future Circle Freeway and the Appalachian Highway for $126 million.

The site is located just west of here near Mount Carmel and is the highest priced land sale ever in Clermont County. Purchase of 108 acres for $1.08 million and of an adjoining two acres for $100,000 was made Thursday. Earlier, the corporation bought a nearby 44-acre tract for $79,000.

Earl T. Barnes, chairman of the neighboring Hamilton County GOP organization, is assistant secretary of the corporation.

It was learned that in addition to the intersection, a motel valued at a quarter of a million dollars will be located on the tract.

Purchase papers for the tract were recorded at the Clermont County Courthouse Thursday by attorney Clyde Mattox, acting for the corporation.

It also was learned that a yet undisclosed contract for construction of a shopping center on the site has been reported signed. A Mount Carmel realty firm has applied for rezoning the farm land to business.

An amendment by Sen. William W. Taft, R-26 Cleveland, would take the controlling board—the watchdog of public spending from the control of the executive branch and place it under the control of the General Assembly.

The Senate Finance Committee tacked on 22 amendments to the budget but committee Chairman Sen. Robert E. Shaw, R-15 Columbus, said the total would remain about the same.

Taft's amendment drops representatives from the auditor and attorney general's offices from the controlling board. It retains the finance chairmen from both houses and adds four members—two from each party. The State Finance Department would have the only administrative representative on the board.

An amendment by Sen. Robin Turner, R-14 Marion, requires state department heads to make quarterly financial reports to the new controlling board and the legislature.

Turner said it would stop department heads or the administration from padding budgets. Under the proposal, the controlling board would be given authority to transfer unspent budget money to other departments.

Sen. Robert T. Secrest, D-20 Cambridge, said the controlling board amendment is "one of the finest things we have ever done. The legislature appropriates the money and should be able to control it."

The finance committee cut $2.5 million for a meat inspection program from the budget saying federal inspection laws were sufficient.

Thousands Pay Respects At Judy Garland Viewing

NEW YORK (AP)—In death as in life, the magnetism of Judy Garland continued undiminished today, drawing thousands of admirers through the night and into the morning to file past her casket and bid goodbye.

"She's found that rainbow now," Mary Roberts, a 20-year-old typist said quietly after gazing on the coffin lined with pale blue velvet. "I hope she's finally got some peace."

They queued up for as long as two hours in the gray, humid afternoon Thursday before entering the chapel for a last brief glimpse of the 47-year-old actress who died Sunday in London of an accidental overdose of sleeping pills.

"People identified with that woman," said Marilyn Ford, 23, a Queens housewife. "Everyone's got sadness and problems, everyone gets lonely. Judy Garland made all of us feel something tied her and us together."

At the scheduled midnight closing there were 3,000 persons waiting outside the Frank E. Campbell funeral parlor on Madison Avenue at East 81st Street, and Judy's husband, Mickey Deans, asked that the doors be kept open.

Deans, who found Judy dead in the bathroom of their Chelsea cottage, also asked that mourners be allowed into the chapel until an hour and a half before the private funeral service at 1 p.m.

Seek Real Reason For Rhodes Veto Of Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Speculation continues in Columbus that there was more than met the eye in Gov. James A. Rhodes' veto of a bill to permit use of the Highway Patrol in local disorders.

Rhodes said he vetoed the measure because of an amendment that prohibited the patrol's use in labor disputes.

The governor, as an example, said that could have kept the patrol from being used in a guard strike at Ohio Penitentiary.

However, current law also prohibits the patrol from being used in labor disputes. What could the governor have gained by the veto?

The bill to set up a Department of Public Safety under the governor's command will now be amended to include all proposals except the strike issue—that were in the vetoed bill.

The Department of Public Safety bill, which easily passed the House, was known to be in trouble in the Senate. Many lawmakers fear it gives the governor's office additional power.

By amending it to include the Highway Patrol provisions, it makes much more potent legislation. And it makes it much more difficult to vote against it.

House Minority Leader John C. McDonald was admiring a picture of Hawaii's open-domed statehouse the other day when a newsman suggested maybe they could build a similar one in Columbus.

"It would shorten the sessions considerably," he advised. "If you would put the legislators right under the opening."

"I doubt it," said McDonald.

Many of our legislators don't have the sense to come in out of the rain."

Rep. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-Ohio obviously is running for a statewide office next year, possibly the U. S. Senate.

His press secretary, Jim Roberts, has been making the rounds among Statehouse newsmen to let them know Lukens is available for comments on any topic they may want.

Robert is working out of Lukens' Middletown and Hamilton offices.

Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney of Cleveland has let Ohio legislators in on the historical reason for their chambers being on the second floor.

He said Illinois in earlier days had first floor chambers but once when a vote was being forced on a bill a lanky legislator jumped out a window to keep the group from having a quorum.

The legislator was Abraham Lincoln.

Illinois now has third floor legislative chambers. Ohio, having few lawmakers as tall as Abe, apparently felt the second floor was high enough.

A Senate aide, in the wake of confusion surrounding the administration's on-again-off-again tax proposals, came up with the idea of an award that could be made daily.

He suggested it go to the legislator or newsman who understands the situation. "If you understand it today, forget it," he advised. "The situation will change tomorrow."

Senate floor leader Ted Gray popped into the Statehouse press room to announce the Senate Finance Committee would hold a meeting "at 3:45."

"Is that afternoon or morning, asked a newsman."

Finance Committee Chairman Robert Shaw tried to hold a secret late hour meeting of the committee in the hotel suite Wednesday night.

Reporters found out about it and followed.

Then, later still, Republican members of the committee got together at another hotel.

NEW YORK (AP)—"The Mama Cass Television Program" on ABC Thursday night was a very pleasant, music-filled hour. It also seemed to be a try out for some group singers who, like Cass, were eager to go it alone.

Miss Elliot placed her plump foot on the first rung of the success ladder as a member of the popular Mamas and the Papas quartet. Among her guests on the special were Mary Travis, without the other two members of the Peter, Paul and Mary trio, and John Sebastian, who once was a part of The Lovin' Spoonful.

They were interesting in their solos, but it seemed that the former group singers—except Cass—were more comfortable and relaxed when working with other singers.

Miss Elliot has a beguiling way with a song—forthright, sweet and true. From popular standards like "Dream a Little Dream of Me," by Cass to John Sebastian's haunting compositions, the musical segments were outstanding.

The rest was a bit of a come down. Buddy Hackett's funniest moments came when he was explaining why he quit gambling at Las Vegas—"They've added something called baccarat so now you lose in French."

The two sketches aimed more for irony and pathos than comedy and just escaped being embarrassing to watch. Buddy played a hospital patient about to have eye bandages removed and learn if he would see again. A romance had developed with another patient—Cass—with a broken arm. The snapper came when Buddy left and the fracture patient picked up a blind person's white cane and was helped off.

Barbara Bain and Martin Landau played a shy, elderly man and woman hunting new mates at a computerized dating bureau. They liked each other, but the computer never matched them, so each walked out alone.

The program obviously was taped several months ago. Since then Cass has gone on a well-publicized and highly successful weight reduction regime.

The Adult Reading World

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pick-away County Public Library offers a variety of books for summertime reading pleasure. A list of suggested books for adult reading will be reviewed weekly for The Herald by the library staff.

"Home Reference Books in Print" by S. P. Waish. No set rule of thumb can be applied in the choice of books for a home library since the needs and interests of the purchaser differ so widely. This book will be of value, however, in making wise choices. Not only dictionaries and atlases, but books that concentrate on one interest, such as the Bible, medical guides, art, history, child guidance, are listed and evaluated as to scope, age suitability, etc. Encyclopedias are evaluated in a separate book by the same author. About one third of the book is devoted to the subscription books, those books very often sold by mail and by door to door salesmen; the tracts utilized, which include the package deal, the choice of differently priced volumes based upon the binding, installment buying and other problems that may arise are presented and there are suggestions as to how to deal with them. Very often the books may be examined, first hand, at your public library. (Reference)

"The Death Committee" by Noah Gordon. Three young interns, of very different backgrounds and very different personal and professional goals, begin their surgical training in a large municipal hospital in Boston. The drama and excitement and challenges of the day to day happenings are absorbing and contemporary. Organ transplants is just one of the potentials for the drama. Another of the happenings is the Mortality Conference, or Death Committee, which reviews patient's deaths to decide if they are preventable and if so why they were not prevented. With the passing of the year of internship the concept each holds of his life is changed and broadened, not only by the hospital experience but by relationships outside the hospital. The book ends on a too idealistic note, perhaps, but it is an engrossing story. Noah Gordon is author of "The Rabbi". (Fiction)

"Clotheslines U.S.A." by Helen Mather. In this day of gas and electric clothes driers Helen Mather presents a commentary on American life that may cease to be. The 84 story pictures will bring back old memories to many, the sweet smell of clean clothes dried in the sun and wind, memories of a less hurried time of life.

"The Miami Years" by Walter Havighurst. This is a history of Miami University in Oxford, Ohio from its beginning in a frontier region through 160 years of progress. Mr. Havighurst has been with the English Department at Miami since 1928 and is a well known writer of regional history. He recounts the early years, the hard times and states that the university has grown and changed more in the last ten years than in any previous decade of its history.

"Houdini: The Untold Story" by Milbourne Christopher. More than 40 years after his last performance in 1926, Houdini is still the world's best known mystifier. While he was a supreme showman, a man of great energy, self-confidence and ambition seven years past before he was billed as King of the Handcuffs. It was in this talent, the escape artist, the man no manacle, straight-jacket, or jail could hold that he attained the fame he sought. In later years he crusaded in investigating and exposing seers, mediums and other psychic phenomena. One of those whom he sought to expose predicted his death would occur within a year. It took two!

PERU TO GRAB LAND—President Juan Velasco Alvarado of Peru announces in Lima that his government will expropriate all privately-owned land tracts and divide them among the people. Landowners, among whom is New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller, will receive "just compensation," Alvarado said.

Shark Menace Plagues Bathers

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—Beaches all along Natal Province's south coast were closed to bathers Thursday as South Africa's top coastal resort faced its greatest shark menace in 10 years.

Three days before the start of the July holiday season, when thousands of inland visitors flock to this 90-mile coastal strip, shark hunters were on dawn-to-dawn duty repairing nets ravaged by large schools of sharks. These man-eaters were feeding on pilchard.

In the past four days more than 100 sharks, some more than 10 feet long, were found trapped in the nets, installed to protect swimmers after a wave of fatal shark attacks in the 1950s.

British Candy Exports Increase

LONDON (AP)—Sweet news for Britain's ailing trade figures—the confectionery industry boosted its exports last year by a record 23 per cent to just over 30 million pounds ($72 million).

Exports to dollar-area markets accounted for well over a third of sales at 11.7 million pounds ($28.1 million).

Ethics Bill Clause Haunts Solons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An amendment to require public officials to bare their finances will continue to haunt a code of ethics bill that today headed for the Ohio Senate.

The House passed 77-6 the constitutional interest legislation Thursday but rejected by a voice vote the financial disclosure amendment proposed by Rep. Richard M. Christensen, D-17 Mansfield.

Christensen said he would turn the amendment over to the Senate committee that hears the bill for insertion while it is there. He said if that fails he will continue to offer the proposal in future sessions.

Rep. Charles E. Fry, R-9 Springfield, prime sponsor of the bipartisan ethics bill, said complete financial disclosure would keep many qualified persons from seeking office.

He said many lawmakers feel their financial status is a private matter.

Reps. Robert C. Carpenter, R-15 Tiffin, and Jim Thorpe, R-90 Alliance led opposition against the bill. Both labeled it "hypocrisy."

"It was conceived in hypocrisy and nurtured by do-gooders and publicity seekers," Carpenter said. Both voted against it.

Others opposing it were Reps. William G. Batchelder, R-23 Medina, Claude M. Fiocca, D-95 Akron, Robert D. Schuck, R-5 Findlay, and Thomas A. Pot-tenger, R-73 Cincinnati.

The bill provides for a six-member ethics committee in each house that would hear charges of wrong doing against legislators, state officials and state employees.

The committee could turn its findings over to the attorney general for civil or criminal prosecution.

Thorpe argued that accusations would make newspaper front pages but if the person was cleared it would be buried inside.

A bill to increase the benefits of widows and dependents of deceased firemen and policemen was passed 74-8.

The measure would boost by 10 per cent pension and disability benefits. It is expected to cost $4,250,000 the first year.

A House resolution to eliminate the need for "short term" candidates on the state ballot passed the Senate 28-0.

Short-term candidates run for a vacancy created when an officeholder quits or dies with less than one year to serve.

The House passed 64-2 a bill requiring electors to vote for the presidential and vice presidential candidates of their own party. It now goes to the Senate.

A resolution to ask Congress to approve the Ohio-West Virginia and Ohio-Kentucky air pollution compacts was introduced in the House by Rep. Carlton E. Davidson, R-26 Iron-ton.

The Adult Reading World

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pickaway County Public Library offers a variety of books for summertime reading pleasure. A list of suggested books for adult reading will be reviewed weekly for The Herald by the library staff.

"Home Reference Books in Print" by S. P. Waish. No set rule of thumb can be applied in the choice of books for a home library since the needs and interests of the purchaser differ so widely. This book will be of value, however, in making wise choices. Not only dictionaries and atlases, but books that concentrate on one interest, such as the Bible, medical guides, art, history, child guidance, are listed and evaluated as to scope, age suitability, etc. Encyclopedias are evaluated in a separate book by the same author. About one third of the book is devoted to the subscription books, those books very often sold by mail and by door to door salesmen; the tracts utilized, which include the package deal, the choice of differently priced volumes based upon the binding, installment buying and other problems that may arise are presented and there are suggestions as to how to deal with them. Very often the books may be examined, first hand, at your public library. (Reference)

"The Death Committee" by Noah Gordon. Three young interns, of very different backgrounds and very different personal and professional goals, begin their surgical training in a large municipal hospital in Boston. The drama and excitement and challenges of the day to day happenings are absorbing and contemporary. Organ transplants is just one of the potentials for the drama. Another of the happenings is the Mortality Conference, or Death Committee, which reviews patient's deaths to decide if they are preventable and if so why they were not prevented. With the passing of the year of internship the concept each holds of his life is changed and broadened, not only by the hospital experience but by relationships outside the hospital. The book ends on a too idealistic note, perhaps, but it is an engrossing story. Noah Gordon is author of "The Rabbi". (Fiction)

"Clotheslines U.S.A." by Helen Mather. In this day of gas and electric clothes driers Helen Mather presents a commentary on American life that may cease to be. The 84 story pictures will bring back old memories to many, the sweet smell of clean clothes dried in the sun and wind, memories of a less hurried time of life.

"The Miami Years" by Walter Havighurst. This is a history of Miami University in Oxford, Ohio from its beginning in a frontier region through 160 years of progress. Mr. Havighurst has been with the English Department at Miami since 1928 and is a well known writer of regional history. He recounts the early years, the hard times and states that the university has grown and changed more in the last ten years than in any previous decade of its history.

"Houdini: The Untold Story" by Milbourne Christopher. More than 40 years after his last performance in 1926, Houdini is still the world's best known mystifier. While he was a supreme showman, a man of great energy, self-confidence and ambition seven years past before he was billed as King of the Handcuffs. It was in this talent, the escape artist, the man no manacle, straight-jacket, or jail could hold that he attained the fame he sought. In later years he crusaded in investigating and exposing seers, mediums and other psychic phenomena. One of those whom he sought to expose predicted his death would occur within a year. It took two!

PERU TO GRAB LAND—President Juan Velasco Alvarado of Peru announces in Lima that his government will expropriate all privately-owned land tracts and divide them among the people. Landowners, among whom is New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller, will receive "just compensation," Alvarado said.

Shark Menace Plagues Bathers

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—Beaches all along Natal Province's south coast were closed to bathers Thursday as South Africa's top coastal resort faced its greatest shark menace in 10 years.

Three days before the start of the July holiday season, when thousands of inland visitors flock to this 90-mile coastal strip, shark hunters were on dawn-to-dawn duty repairing nets ravaged by large schools of sharks. These man-eaters were feeding on pilchard.

In the past four days more than 100 sharks, some more than 10 feet long, were found trapped in the nets, installed to protect swimmers after a wave of fatal shark attacks in the 1950s.

British Candy Exports Increase

LONDON (AP)—Sweet news for Britain's ailing trade figures—the confectionery industry boosted its exports last year by a record 23 per cent to just over 30 million pounds ($72 million).

Exports to dollar-area markets accounted for well over a third of sales at 11.7 million pounds ($28.1 million).

Clean Up Dead Fish

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP)—Millions of fish killed in the Rhine River over the weekend by what is believed to have been an insecticide are being burned and buried in a massive cleanup operation, health officials said Thursday.

Reports from four river test stations say the river is now clear of poison and surviving fish are healthy.

West German officials are searching vessels from Lake Constance—at the headwaters of the Rhine—to Holland in order to find the poison's source.

Dutch researchers have identified the poison as Endo Solvann Europe's only producer of the insecticide is the German chemical company Hoechst, which markets the substance under the name Thiodan.

The agriculture minister of the state of North Rhine-Westphalia said Wednesday that Hoechst "is in no way under any kind of suspicion." Authorities there already have filed an open charge against those found to be responsible for the poisoning.

Elks, Legion Win LL Games

In Little League Major action last night, American Legion knocked off Purina 12-1, while the Elks edged Bingmans, 8-7 under the lights.

Rick Ramsey was the player of the night for American Legion. He was three for three at the plate with a single, a double, and a triple. He was also the winning legion pitcher. John Shipley and Mark Waites also hit for extra bases in the tilt.

John Wickline, Mark Mace and Matt McGowan pitched for Purina giving up 12 runs on 14 hits.

American Legion took the lead 4-0 at the end of the second inning. Legion scored three more in the third while Purina bagged their only marker of the night. The winners then scored one in the fourth and five in the fifth.

Purina's one run was on two hits, both of which were singles.

Randy Thomas hit the winning run in the overtime Elks-Bingmans game. His winning homer came in the bottom of the seventh to break a 7-7 deadlock.

The Elks scored seven runs in the first two innings blanking Bingmans until the top of the sixth when they rallied for seven markers to tie the tilt. Bingmans seven runs were on seven hits while the Elks had six hits. Brian Herron, Hack Cradlebaugh, and Thomas connected on doubles for the Elks. Brent Mancini and Rock Edgington hit doubles for Bingmans, the only extra basers for the losers.

Randy Cradlebaugh started on the mound for the Elks striking out four, walking four, and giving up five hits in the five innings he pitched. His relief hurler, Mark Hoffman, walked two, whiffed four and allowed two hits.

Rock Edgington started on the hill for the druggists. He allowed four hits, whiffed one and walked five. He was relieved in the fourth by Terry Brown who whiffed four and walked one. Brent Mancini finished up the game for Bingmans allowing two hits and one walk while striking out three.

FISHING TIPS

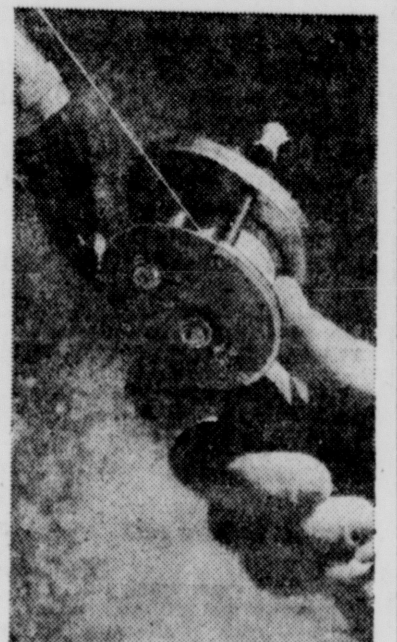

By BILL TRUE, World's Professional Casting Champ

Champ
The bait-casting reel, which is mounted on top of the rod, has a spool that revolves on the cast. It can hold great lengths of line, as much as 100 to 300 yards. The thumb controls the line in casting. Never use a bait casting reel on a spinning rod.

The elevation principle should be used in casting for greater accuracy and distance. The closer the target area the lower the rod tip is pointed to the water area. This cuts down the arc of the plug. Basic rules to follow are to use wrist action for accuracy and forearm for power. Never use the entire arm.

As indicated in the photograph, cast by holding the reel in a side position, handles up, never while the reel is in an upright position. This allows for greater wrist action and there is less spool friction in this position. Light thumb pressure should go applied as the line goes out, then, just before you reach the area you wish the lure to hit the water, thumb the spool to a stop.

Most casting reels feature an anti-backlash button on the side. In the beginning tension should be tighter to eliminate most backlashes, then as experience is gained, this tension can be loosened.

Proper thumb action on the line, just before the lure hits the water, should prevent most backlashes.

During the retrieve, palm the reel in your left hand, if you are right-handed, and hold the line between the index finger and the thumb while reeling it in with your right hand.

Orville Moody Out To Win Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — Orville Moody, a recent refugee from obscurity, is a man with a mission.

"I don't want to be the Open champion who never won anything else," said the ruddy-faced Old Sarge who came out of nowhere and won the national championship.

"I'd hate that. I don't mean I have to win everything, but as the National Open champion, I want to play well, there'd be satisfaction in that."

Moody, on the rebound from a bout with tonsillitis, made the observation Thursday after he had fashioned a three-under par 67 and tied red-hot Charles Coody and long shot Jerry McGee for the first-round lead in the $110,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

"I played better and I'm sure I putted better than I have in any other round this year," said the man who threatens to create a craze with his crosshanded putting style.

"I played it bold, but then I always do," he said. "I was putting bold, too," and he laughed. "It's easy to do when you've got some money. When I was trying to make the cut, I was pretty much a lag putter."

Moody, a 14-year Army veteran, birdied five of the last nine holes on the par 70, 6,661-yard Aurora Country Club course and gained a share of the lead with an eight-foot putt on the 18th.

Coody, a 6-foot-2 Texan, had been in the clubhouse for hours when Moody and McGee, who had failed to qualify in the last five events, came in.

Yankee Cup Inaugural

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Lots of loot, two miles of grass and a tape equals the inaugural running Saturday of the Yankee Gold Cup at Suffolk Downs—the richest turf race in North America.

If all 15 entered Thursday start, the gross purse will be $254,750, with $165,587 going to the winner. The early favorite is Gustave Ring's Czar Alexander.

And if all 15 start, they will have to break from a tape since the starting gate accommodates only 14.

Other national features include the $75,000-added Vanity Handicap at Hollywood Park, the $50,000-added Saranac Handicap at Belmont Park the $40,000-added Twilight Tear Handicap at Arlington Park.

The $35,000-added Molly Pitcher Handicap at Monmouth Park, the $25,000-added Dragon Stakes for 2-year-old colts at Liberty Bell Park and the $20,000-added Blue Hen Stakes for 2-year-old fillies at Delaware Park.

Czar Alexander, who has won three straight stakes and set track records in two, will carry topweight of 128 pounds, is expected to get his toughest competition from Flag Is Up Farm's Petrone, 125, and Thomas S. Nichols' Jean-Pierre, 113.

Jorge Velasquez will break Czar Alexander from the No. 2 post. Petrone will leave the No. 1 gate under Johnny Sellers, and Walter Blum will take Jean-Pierre from the No. 9 slot. William Haggin Perry's Gamaly and Rokeby Stable's Amerigo Lady head a field of about 13 in the $75,000-added Vanity Handicap for fillies and mares at 1 1/4 miles. Gamley, who won this race last year under 131 pounds, will carry highweight of 128, three more than Amerigo Lady.

Stoutsville's little league minor team defeated Pickaway Twp. minors, 4-2, Thursday.

Russ Foster led the winners with a double and a triple while Allen Holbrook cracked a pair of singles.

Jeff Collins and Redman singled for the only two hits for Pickaway.

Lynn Strehle was the winning pitcher, fanning 11 and walking five. Randy Pontius was tagged with the loss. He whiffed nine, issued four bases on balls and was touched for eight hits.

Washington topped Laurelville 8-1 and Pickaway downed Stoutsville 7-6 in Tri-County major league action last night.

Greg Justus carried his record to 2-0 in the Washington win over Laurelville as he hurled a one-hitter. He struck out 12 and walked 6. The lone hit was an infield single in the second inning.

Willie Clifton went 3 for 4 at the plate for Washington to bring Washington's record to 4-0 on the year.

Brian Barr pitched Pickaway to a 7-6 win over Stoutsville. He gave up 10 hits, fanned six and walked three.

A base hit by Pat Williams in the bottom of the sixth inning brought Brock Bell and Seth Dresbach across the plate for the tying and winning runs.

Toby Davis was the losing Stoutsville hurler, allowing 6 hits, but walking seven and fanning four.

Dodgers Top Braves; 3-0; Back In Lead

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
With apologies to Abbott and Costello, the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta Braves are staging their own little baseball skit called Who's In First.

Thursday night's episode, starring Bill Singer and Willie Davis, went to the Dodgers 3-0, vaulting them back into first place in the National League West by one-half game over the Braves.

The Dodgers had held or shared second place until they caught and passed the Braves last weekend. They fell back to second Wednesday night for 24 hours, but promptly overtook the Braves again behind Singer's four-hit pitching and Davis' homer and two runs batted in.

Elsewhere, San Francisco beat Cincinnati 4-2, the Chicago Cubs outlasted Pittsburgh 7-5, Philadelphia tripped the New York Mets 2-0 and Montreal slugged St. Louis 8-6. Houston and San Diego were not scheduled.

Singer checked the Braves on four hits until he tired with one out in the ninth in the 94-degree Atlanta heat. Jim Brewer came on to nail the last two outs and preserve Singer's ninth victory.

Although the hard-throwing right-hander fanned only three, he was so in command that the Braves didn't even beef that he was throwing spitballs. Earlier this season, Atlanta skipper Luman Harris charged that Singer was using the outlawed pitch and even sent the hurler a button reading, "Bring back the spitter."

"He only threw it with runners on base—so he didn't need to against us," said Braves slugger Hank Aaron, who doubled for one of Atlanta's four hits.

Shutouts Top Minor League Ball Games

Two shutouts topped the Little League Minor play last night when the Savings Bank blanked Second National 12-0, and IOOF trampled Rotary 30-0.

Biff Bumgarner was the big hitter for the Savings Bank in their route. He connected on two doubles in three times to the plate scoring three runs. Bumgarner was also the winning pitcher striking out 15, walking two and giving up three hits.

Randy Hoop and Kyle Thomas hit doubles for second National. The losers had three hits and seven errors in the game.

Hoop was the losing pitcher giving up five hits, walking six and striking out seven.

Savings Bank scored one marker in the second stanza, two in the third, and nine in the fifth.

Brad Allison and Roger Hill teamed up on the mound for IOOF in their 30-0 shutout over Rotary.

Jim Willison hit a two run homer in the first inning to get things started for the Odd Fellows. Reynold Williams and Mark Schiewetz hit for triples while Williams also got a double for the winners.

IOOF scored 11 runs in the first inning, ten in the second, two in the third and three and four in the fourth and fifth innings consecutively.

Tiger Lily Lobell, Ocean Mouth Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tiger Lily Lobell and Ocean Mouth paced to career records in separate divisions in the $20,000 challenge stakes for 3-year old pacers at Scioto Downs Thursday night.

Tiger Lily won the first division race by two lengths in running her first two minute mile. The winner, driven by Curley Smart, paid $2.40, $2.40 and $2.20.

Duke Duane was second, paying $3.40 and $2.80 while Golden Butler, at third, paid $3.40.

Ocean Mouth came from behind to win by four-and-a-quarter lengths in the second division with a 2:01.1 performance. Ocean Mouth paid $5.20, $3 and $2.20. Sweeney Hanover was second and paid $2.80 and $2.20 while King's Medal was third, paying $2.20.

Singer started a two-run uprising in the third with a single off Pat Jarvis. Maury Wills' single and Manny Mota's infield hit filled the bases and two runs scored when Davis hit into a force at second and shortstop Sonny Jackson relayed wildly to first. Davis then belted his seventh homer three innings later.

Bob Bolin was pretty much the whole show for San Francisco. He stopped Cincinnati on four hits for 8 2-3 innings—Frank Linzy got the last out—and slammed a two-run homer in the third. Bobby Bonds, who opened the game with a homer, followed Bolin's blast with a triple and scored on Ron Hunt's single.

The Cubs and Pirates staged a wild seven-homer slugfest at Wrigley Field—the wind was blowing out at 28 miles an hour—before Jim Hickman's two-run shot in the 10th won it and boosted Chicago's lead in the NL East to 6 1/2 games over the Mets.

Billy Williams connected for the Cubs in the first to tie the score 1-1 but the Pirates went ahead in the sixth on solo homers by Willie Stargell and Manny Sanguillen. Ken Rudolph's first major league homer with a man on base tied it again in the last of the sixth. Roberto Clemente put the Pirates back in front 3-3 with a two-run homer in the eighth, but Ron Santo got it right back with a two-run shot of his own. It remained 5-5 until Hickman sent a capacity Ladies' Day crowd of 40,334—29,473 paid—home happy.

Grant Jackson fired a four-hitter and Larry Hise scored both runs as the crippled Phillies knocked off the Mets. In the sixth, Hise singled and scored on a single by Rick Joseph. In the eighth, he doubled and rode home on a double by Johnny Briggs. Jackson, a fireballing lefty, struck out 10, getting Ron Swoboda four times.

Montreal used solo homers by Howie Reed and Coco Laboy and a two-run wallop by Bob Bailey to turn back St. Louis. Joe Torre hit a three-run homer for the Cards.

Bob Bolin Leads Giants Past Cincinnati Reds, 4-2

CINCINNATI (AP) —Pitcher Bob Bolin drove in two runs with his first homer since 1966 and then used beautiful pitches to lead San Francisco to a 4-2 victory over Cincinnati Thursday night.

Bolin, 4-4, missed by one out of going the distance. With two out in the ninth, Frank Linzy was called in when Tommy Helms singled and Jim Stewart walked. Pinch hitter Fred Whitfield popped out to third to end the threat.

"I didn't have a good fast ball so I used breaking stuff most of the time," Bolin said.

Bobby Bonds, San Francisco rightfielder, drove in a run and got three hits in five times at bat. He scored twice.

Giants skipper Clyde King said, "I can't say enough for Bolin's performance. I was afraid that being a little tired, he might throw a high ball to the batter." Thus his call for Linzy.

Tony Cloninger, who started for the Reds, failed again to get very far. He lasted two innings and two batters into the third—both of whom he walked. He now is 4-10.

Bonds hit his 10th homer in the first inning and Bolin came along with his two-run shot in the second. Bonds, who has been a tough batter for Cincinnati pitchers, also got a triple and a single in five times at bat. He scored after he tripled in the second.

When Dave Bristol, Cincinnati's manager, was asked if he would take Cloninger out of rotation he said:

"We can't go into the bullpen. Cloninger will pitch in his next regular turn."

The Reds had six players in the lineup hitting .300 or better but they couldn't do anything against Bolin.

Alex Johnson got two singles and Bobby Tolan and Tommy Helms got one a piece.

Tolan scored in the fourth and sixth innings on sacrifice flies by Tony Perez and Lee May.

Sam McDowell Set To Face Yankees

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Indians hope to erase the memory of Thursday's 4-3 extra-inning loss at Boston in record-breaking fashion here tonight by sending Sam McDowell to the mound against the New York Yankees.

McDowell goes into the game just six strikeouts shy of a career total of 1,500, a mark broken by 47 other pitchers in baseball history.

Kiwanis Wins Babe Ruth Tilt

Kiwanis was put down by Lindsey's Bake Shop 4-2 in the only Babe Ruth league action Thursday.

Harold Smith, of Kiwanis, hit the only extra bagger of the tilt with a double. The losers scored one in the third, and one in the fifth.

Lindsey's scored two runs in the third and fifth innings. Dean Fausnaugh was the winning pitcher giving up four hits and four walks while whiffing seven.

Don Valentine struck out 14, allowed two hits and walked six for the losers.

Lindsey's Bake Shop is undefeated with a 2-0 record for the season while Kiwanis is 2-1 for the year.

Willie Clifton went 3 for 4 at the plate for Washington to bring Washington's record to 4-0 on the year.

Brian Barr pitched Pickaway to a 7-6 win over Stoutsville. He gave up 10 hits, fanned six and walked three.

A base hit by Pat Williams in the bottom of the sixth inning brought Brock Bell and Seth Dresbach across the plate for the tying and winning runs.

Toby Davis was the losing Stoutsville hurler, allowing 6 hits, but walking seven and fanning four.

Kochheiser Blanked By Bob Thirston

Bob Thirston's four hit shutout gave VFW its second straight win, a 2-0 victory over winless Kochheiser in Pony League action last night.

The winners scored a run in the second and a run in the fifth.

Penn State's basketball team, under new coach John Bach, had a 13-9 record last season.

Add Powerglide, power disc brakes and whitewalls to this Chevelle.

Subtract $69.00
from last year's price.

You've heard that general rule:
To get more you pay more.
Let's break it.

Take this '69 Malibu Sport Coupe. With head restraints. Add Powerglide automatic transmission, power disc brakes and whitewall tires. (Wheel covers, too, which haven't changed in price.) Then total. When you compare it with last year's Malibu, equipped the same way, it's priced $69.00* less.

The reason? We've made head restraints standard. And, while the whitewalls went up slightly, we've cut the price on Powerglide and our advanced-design power disc brakes, substantially. Altogether, it's more Chevelle for less money. Nice.

So's this. A standard 200-hp V8 engine. Astro Ventilation and full door-glass styling. A new anti-theft locking device on the steering column helps keep your car yours.

A computer-selected suspension gives you a ride so smooth it leaves bumps where they belong. On the road. And it's all on Chevelle. Priced $69.00 less.

You see. You don't have to pay more to get more. And your Chevrolet dealer's proving it right now.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

Elks, Legion Win LL Games

In Little League Major action last night, American Legion knocked off Purina 12-1, while the Elks edged Bingmans, 8-7 under the lights.

Rick Ramsey was the player of the night for American Legion. He was three for three at the plate with a single, a double, and a triple. He was also the winning legion pitcher. John Shipley and Mark Waites also hit for extra bases in the tilt.

John Wickline, Mark Mace and Matt McGowan pitched for Purina giving up 12 runs on 14 hits.

American Legion took the lead 4-0 at the end of the second inning. Legion scored three more in the third while Purina bagged their only marker of the night. The winners then scored one in the fourth and five in the fifth.

Purina's one run was on two hits, both of which were singles. Randy Thomas hit the winning run in the overtime Elks-Bingmans game. His winning homer came in the bottom of the seventh to break a 7-7 deadlock.

The Elks scored seven runs in the first two innings blanking Bingmans until the top of the sixth when they rallied for seven markers to tie the tilt. Bingmans seven runs were on seven hits while the Elks had six hits. Brian Herron, Hack Cradlebaugh, and Thomas connected on doubles for the Elks. Brent Mancini and Rock Edgington hit doubles for Bingmans, the only extra basers for the losers.

Randy Cradlebaugh started on the mound for the Elks striking out four, walking four, and giving up five hits in the five innings he pitched. His relief hurler, Mark Hoffman, walked two, whiffed four and allowed two hits.

Rock Edgington started on the hill for the druggists. He allowed four hits, whiffed one and walked five. He was relieved in the fourth by Terry Brown who whiffed four and walked one. Brent Mancini finished up the game for Bingmans allowing two hits and one walk while striking out three.

FISH TIPS

By BILL TRUE, World's Professional Casting Champ

Champ
The bait-casting reel, which is mounted on top of the rod, has a spool that revolves on the cast. It can hold great lengths of line, as much as 100 to 300 yards. The thumb controls the line in casting. Never use a bait casting reel on a spinning rod.

The elevation principle should be used in casting for greater accuracy and distance. The closer the target area the lower the rod tip is pointed to the water area. This cuts down the arc of the plug. Basic rules to follow are to use wrist action for accuracy and forearm for power. Never use the entire arm.

As indicated in the photograph, cast by holding the reel in a side position, handles up, never while the reel is in an upright position. This allows for greater wrist action and there is less spool friction in this position. Light thumb pressure should be applied as the line goes out, then, just before you reach the area you wish the lure to hit the water, thumb the spool to a stop.

Most casting reels feature an anti-backlash button on the side. In the beginning tension should be tighter to eliminate most backlashes, then as experience is gained, this tension can be loosened.

Proper thumb action on the line, just before the lure hits the water, should prevent most backlashes.

During the retrieve, palm the reel in your left hand, if you are right-handed, and hold the line between the index finger and the thumb while reeling it in with your right hand.

Orville Moody Out To Win Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — Orville Moody, a recent refugee from obscurity, is a man with a mission.

"I don't want to be the Open champion who never won anything else," said the ruddy-faced Old Sarge who came out of nowhere and won the national championship.

"I'd hate that. I don't mean I have to win everything, but as the National Open champion, I want to play well, there'd be satisfaction in that."

Moody, on the rebound from a bout with tonsillitis, made the observation Thursday after he had fashioned a three-under par 67 and tied red-hot Charles Coody and long shot Jerry McGee for the first-round lead in the $10,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

"I played better and I'm sure I putted better than I have in any other round this year," said the man who threatens to create a craze with his crosshanded putting style.

"I played it bold, but then I always do," he said. "I was putting bold, too," and he laughed. "It's easy to do when you've got some money. When I was trying to make the cut, I was pretty much a lag putter."

Moody, a 14-year Army veteran, birdied five of the last nine holes on the par 70, 6,661-yard Aurora Country Club course and gained a share of the lead with an eight-foot putt on the 18th.

Coody, a 6-foot-2 Texan, had been in the clubhouse for hours when Moody and McGee, who had failed to qualify in the last five events, came in.

Yankee Cup Inaugural

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer
Lots of loot, two miles of grass and a tape equals the inaugural running Saturday of the Yankee Gold Cup at Suffolk Downs—the richest turf race in North America.

If all 15 entered Thursday start, the gross purse will be $254,750, with $165,587 going to the winner. The early favorite is Gustave Ring's Czar Alexander.

And if all 15 start, they will have to break from a tape since the starting gate accommodates only 14.

Other national features include the $75,000-added Vanity Handicap at Hollywood Park, the $50,000-added Saranac Handicap at Belmont Park the $40,000-added Twilight Tear Handicap at Arlington Park.

The $35,000-added Molly Pitcher Handicap at Monmouth Park, the $25,000-added Dragon Stakes for 2-year-old colts at Liberty Bell Park and the $20,000-added Blue Hen Stakes for 2-year-old fillies at Delaware Park.

Czar Alexander, who has won three straight stakes and set track records in two, will carry topweight of 128 pounds, is expected to get his toughest competition from Flag Is Up Farm's Petrone, 125, and Thomas S. Nichols' Jean-Pierre, 113.

Jorge Velasquez will break Czar Alexander from the No. 2 post. Petrone will leave the No. 1 gate under Johnny Sellers, and Walter Blum will take Jean-Pierre from the No. 9 slot.

William Haggin Perry's Gamaly and Rokeby Stable's Amerigo Lady head a field of about 13 in the $75,000-added Vanity Handicap for fillies and mares at 1 1/4 miles. Gamley, who won this race last year under 131 pounds, will carry highweight of 128, three more than Amerigo Lady.

Stoutsville Wins Minor League Tilt

Stoutsville's little league minor team defeated Pickaway Twp. minors, 4-2, Thursday.

Russ Foster led the winners with a double and a triple while Allen Holbrook cracked a pair of singles.

Jeff Collins and Redman singled for the only two hits for Pickaway.

Lynn Strehle was the winning pitcher, fanning 11 and walking five. Randy Pontius was tagged with the loss. He whiffed nine, issued four bases on balls and was touched for eight hits.

Willie Clifton went 3 for 4 at the plate for Washington to bring Washington's record to 4-0 on the year.

Brian Barr pitched Pickaway to a 7-6 win over Stoutsville. He gave up 10 hits, fanned six and walked three.

A base hit by Pat Williams in the bottom of the sixth inning brought Brock Bell and Seth Dresbach across the plate for the tying and winning runs.

Toby Davis was the losing Stoutsville hurler, allowing 6 hits, but walking seven and fanning four.

Dodgers Top Braves; 3-0; Back In Lead

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
With apologies to Abbott and Costello, the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta Braves are staging their own little baseball skit called Who's In First.

Thursday night's episode, starring Bill Singer and Willie Davis, went to the Dodgers 3-0, vaulting them back into first place in the National League West by one-half game over the Braves.

The Dodgers had held off shared second place until they caught and passed the Braves last weekend. They fell back to second Wednesday night for 24 hours, but promptly overtook the Braves again behind Singer's four-hit pitching and Davis' homer and two runs batted in.

Elsewhere, San Francisco beat Cincinnati 4-2, the Chicago Cubs outlasted Pittsburgh 7-5, Philadelphia tripped the New York Mets 2-0 and Montreal slugged St. Louis 8-6. Houston and San Diego were not scheduled.

Singer checked the Braves on four hits until he tired with one out in the ninth in the 94-degree Atlanta heat. Jim Brewer came on to nail the last two outs and preserve Singer's ninth victory.

Although the hard-throwing right-hander fanned only three, he was so in command that the Braves didn't even beef that he was throwing spitballs. Earlier this season, Atlanta skipper Luman Harris charged that Singer was using the outlawed pitch and even sent the hurler a button reading, "Bring back the spitball."

"He only throws it with runners on base—so he didn't need to against us," said Braves slugger Hank Aaron, who doubled for one of Atlanta's four hits.

Shutouts Top Minor League Ball Games

Two shutouts topped the Little League Minor play last night when the Savings Bank blanked Second National 12-0, and IOOF trampled Rotary 30-0.

Biff Bumgarner was the big hitter for the Savings Bank in their route. He connected on two doubles in three times to the plate scoring three runs. Bumgarner was also the winning pitcher striking out 15, walking two and giving up three hits.

Randy Hoop and Kyle Thomas hit doubles for Second National. The losers had three hits and seven errors in the game.

Hoop was the losing pitcher giving up five hits, walking six and striking out seven.

Savings Bank scored one marker in the second stanza, two in the third, and nine in the fifth.

Brad Allison and Roger Hill teamed up on the mound for IOOF in their 30-0 shutout over Rotary.

Jim Willison hit a two run homer in the first inning to get things started for the Odd Fellows. Reynold Williams and Mark Schiewetz hit for triples while Williams also got a double for the winners.

IOOF scored 11 runs in the first inning, ten in the second, two in the third and three and four in the fourth and fifth innings consecutively.

Tiger Lily Lobell, Ocean Mouth Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tiger Lily Lobell and Ocean Mouth paced to career records in separate divisions in the $20,000 challenge stakes for 3-year old pacers at Scioto Downs Thursday night.

Tiger Lily won the first division race by two lengths in running her first two minute mile. The winner, driven by Curley Smart, paid $2.40, $2.40 and $2.20.

Duke Duane was second, paying $3.40 and $2.80 while Golden Butler, at third, paid $3.40.

Ocean Mouth came from behind to win by four-and-a-quarter lengths in the second division with a 2:01.1 performance. Ocean Mouth paid $5.20, $3 and $2.20. Sweeney Hanover was second and paid $2.80 and $2.20 while King's Medal was third, paying $2.20.

Singer started a two-run uprising in the third with a single off Pat Jarvis. Maury Wills' single and Manny Mota's infield hit filled the bases and two runs scored when Davis hit into a force at second and shortstop Sonny Jackson relayed wildly to first. Davis then belted his seventh homer three innings later.

Bob Bolin was pretty much the whole show for San Francisco. He stopped Cincinnati on four hits for 8 2-3 innings—Frank Linzy got the last out—and slammed a two-run homer in the third. Bobby Bonds, who opened the game with a homer, followed Bolin's blast with a triple and scored on Ron Hunt's single.

The Cubs and Pirates staged a wild seven-homer slugfest at Wrigley Field—the wind was blowing out at 28 miles an hour—before Jim Hickman's two-run shot in the 10th won it and boosted Chicago's lead in the NL East to 6 1/2 games over the Mets.

Billy Williams connected for the Cubs in the first to tie the score 1-1 but the Pirates went ahead in the sixth on solo homers by Willie Stargell and Manny Sanguillen. Ken Rudolph's first major league homer with a man on base tied it again in the last of the sixth. Roberto Clemente put the Pirates back in front 5-3 with a two-run homer in the eighth, but Ron Santo got it right back with a two-run shot of his own. It remained 5-5 until Hickman sent a capacity Ladies' Day crowd of 40,334—29,473 paid—home happy.

Grant Jackson fired a four-hitter and Larry Hise scored both runs as the crippled Phillies knocked off the Mets. In the sixth, Hise singled and scored on a single by Rick Joseph. In the eighth, he doubled and rode home on a double by Johnny Briggs. Jackson, a fireballing lefty, struck out 10, getting Ron Swoboda four times.

Montreal used solo homers by Howie Reed and Coco Laboy and a two-run wallop by Bob Bailey to turn back St. Louis. Joe Torre hit a three-run homer for the Cards.

Bob Bolin Leads Giants Past Cincinnati Reds, 4-2

CINCINNATI (AP) —Pitcher Bob Bolin drove in two runs with his first homer since 1966 and then used beautiful pitches to lead San Francisco to a 4-2 victory over Cincinnati Thursday night.

Bolin, 4-4, missed by one out of going the distance. With two out in the ninth, Frank Linzy was called in when Tommy Helms singled and Jim Stewart walked. Pinch hitter Fred Whitfield popped out to third to end the threat.

"I didn't have a good fast ball so I used breaking stuff most of the time," Bolin said.

Bobby Bonds, San Francisco rightfielder, drove in a run and got three hits in five times at bat. He scored twice.

Giants skipper Clyde King said, "I can't say enough for Bolin's performance. I was afraid that being a little tired, he might throw a high ball to the batter." Thus his call for Linzy.

Tony Cloninger, who started for the Reds, failed again to get very far. He lasted two innings and two batters into the third—both of whom he walked. He now is 4-10.

Bonds hit his 10th homer in the first inning and Bolin came along with his two-run shot in the second. Bonds, who has been a tough batter for Cincinnati pitchers, also got a triple and a single in five times at bat. He scored after he tripled in the second.

When Dave Bristol, Cincinnati's manager, was asked if he would take Cloninger out of rotation he said:

"We can't go into the bullpen. Cloninger will pitch in his next regular turn."

The Reds had six players in the lineup hitting .300 or better but they couldn't do anything against Bolin.

Alex Johnson got two singles and Bobby Tolan and Tommy Helms got one a piece.

Tolan scored in the fourth and sixth innings on sacrifice flies by Tony Perez and Lee May.

Kiwanis Wins Babe Ruth Tilt

Kiwanis was put down by Lindsey's Bake Shop 4-2 in the only Babe Ruth league action Thursday.

Harold Smith, of Kiwanis, hit the only extra bagger of the tilt with a double. The losers scored one in the third, and one in the fifth.

Lindsey's scored two runs in the third and fifth innings. Dean Fausnaugh was the winning pitcher giving up four hits and four walks while whiffing seven.

Don Valentine struck out 14, allowed two hits and walked six for the losers.

Lindsey's Bake Shop is undefeated with a 2-0 record for the season while Kiwanis is 2-1 for the year.

2 Games Played In Tri-County League Action

Washington topped Laureville 8-1 and Pickaway downed Stoutsville 7-6 in Tri-County major league action last night.

Willie Clifton went 3 for 4 at the plate for Washington to bring Washington's record to 4-0 on the year.

Brian Barr pitched Pickaway to a 7-6 win over Stoutsville. He gave up 10 hits, fanned six and walked three.

A base hit by Pat Williams in the bottom of the sixth inning brought Brock Bell and Seth Dresbach across the plate for the tying and winning runs.

Toby Davis was the losing Stoutsville hurler, allowing 6 hits, but walking seven and fanning four.

Bob Thirston's four hit shutout gave VFW its second straight win, a 2-0 victory over winless Kochheiser in Pony League action last night.

The winners scored a run in the second and a run in the fifth.

Penn State's basketball team, under new coach John Bach, had a 13-9 record last season.

Yankees Top Detroit Tigers, 6-0

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mel Stottlemyre found the best way to beat the heat was to get a quick jump on it.

Stottlemyre, given a five-run working margin in the second inning, hurled a four-hitter Thursday night as the New York Yankees tamed Detroit 6-0 in hot and humid Tiger Stadium.

The smooth right-hander's 10th triumph of the season salvaged the finale of a four-game series for the Yankees. The loss dropped the Tigers 11½ games behind Baltimore's idle American League East Division leaders going into their critical four-game weekend set with the high flying Orioles.

Elsewhere in the AL, Seattle scored two ninth inning runs for a 3-2 nod over the Chicago White Sox; Oakland edged Kansas City 3-2; Boston nipped Cleveland 4-3 in 10 innings and Minnesota trimmed California 7-4.

Stottlemyre, who had failed to win in three previous starts while battling a typical control problems, mastered the Tigers easily after Joe Pepitone's three-run double climaxed the Yanks' second inning uprising. The New York mound ace, 10-6, scattered three singles did not walk anybody and coasted to his 12th complete game in 19 starts—despite the 92-degree weather.

"I was lucky we got those early runs and I didn't have any real long innings," he said. "I've been struggling lately, but with the five-run lead I was able to relax and just get the ball over the plate." After issuing 32 walks in his first 15 starts, he was charged with 19 in non-winning appearances against Seattle, Detroit and Boston. "I was trying to be too careful," he said. "Before tonight's game I had a talk with Ralph Houk (the Yanks' pilot) and he told me to just try to jump out ahead of the hitters."

It was Stottlemyre's second shutout—both at the Tigers' expense. He fired a one-hitter against them in his only previous start at Detroit. "Normally, they give me a real hard time," he said. "This year I've just had good stuff against them. I think I was sharper the last time here, but I probably mixed up my pitches tonight better than I've done all year."

The Pilots fell behind 2-1 in the top of the ninth, then rallied to nip Chicago on Jerry McNertney's RBI double and pinch hitter Tommy Davis' run-scoring single—both with two out in the bottom half.

Gene Brabender limited the White Sox to six hits, including a homer by Pete Ward, and evened his pitching record at 5-5.

Reggie Jackson slammed his 28th homer for two Oakland runs, but it took a run-scoring bloop double by Danny Cater in the seventh to push the Athletics past Kansas City. Pat Kelly's fourth inning homer had lifted the Royals into a 2-2 tie.

Dick Schofield doubled in the 10th and scored on Reggie Smith's single, giving Boston its edge over Cleveland. Reliever Vicente Romo pitched one-hit ball over the final five innings to earn the victory.

Doubles by Cesar Tova and

Tony Oliva and run-scoring singles by Rich Reese and John Roseboro keyed a four-run Minnesota rally in the eighth that beat the Angels. Oliva knocked in the tying run and Reese sent the Twins ahead. Harmon Killebrew delivered two Minnesota runs with a single and his 18th homer.

Joe Louis Doing Well; Wasn't Heart

NEW YORK (AP) — Former boxing great Joe Louis was reported "resting comfortably" in a hospital today after he collapsed on a lower Manhattan street Thursday.

At first, it was feared that the 55-year-old Louis had suffered a heart attack, but a later report said the collapse was due to a physical breakdown.

A spokesman at Beekman-Downtown Hospital said the ex-heavyweight king was in "good" condition. He was expected to remain in the hospital for observation for a few days.

Leon Charney, an attorney, said Louis had just stepped from Charney's car when Louis complained of feeling ill and bent over. Charney drove Louis to the hospital.

Louis was in New York to promote a newly formed Joe Louis Food Franchise Corp., an interracial fast-food company. The Brown Bomber, heavyweight champion from 1937 until 1949, won 68 fights and lost only three.

Paschal took the lead on the 194th lap under a caution flag, and the race finished under the caution. He won $850 of the $6,075 purse.

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath's return to football was still in limbo today following a two-hour meeting between the star quarterback of the New York Jets and Pro Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

No details of the meeting were announced, and even the site of the confab was not revealed except that it was in New York and not at the commissioner's office.

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The crowds at Wimbledon can help to defeat a tennis star even a cool old campaigner like Ken Rosewall.

The 34-year-old Australian, upset by Bob Lutz of Los Angeles in the third round Thursday, confessed that for the first time in his career the fans disturbed his concentration.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Jim Paschal, in a 1969 Javelin, won the 100-mile NASCAR Grand Touring stock car race at the Columbia Speedway Thursday night.

Fulbright Lashes Continued Curbs On Trade With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright has touched a sore point with his charge, addressed to a high State Department official, that the Nixon administration is not interested in easing trade restrictions with Communist Europe.

The Arkansas Democrat delivered his criticism on the eve of today's expected vote in the House on a Senate-passed 60-day extension of the Export Control Act, which allows only limited presidential authority to trade with the Communist nations. The act expires June 30.

officials at Foggy Bottom contend, Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, should know it.

Fulbright leveled his attack Thursday when Philip H. Trezise, the new assistant secretary for economic affairs testified before the committee. The Senate, Fulbright said, agreed with the Johnson administration that trading with the European Communist countries should be made easier.

The Nixon administration thinks otherwise, the senator noted, and added:

"I regret it. I think it adds to suspicions and tensions."

Many State Department experts agree. But their position was overridden by the National Security Council late in May when the NSC recommended Congress extend the 20-year-old Export Control Act.

Accordingly, when the extension issue came before the Senate Banking Committee May 28, administration spokesmen asked the law be extended without modifications.

Liberalizing amendments of the Export Control Act, said Joseph A. Greenwald, then acting assistant secretary for economic affairs, "would not be warranted under the present circumstances. We are exploring possibilities with the hope of finding a basis which may lead to more far-reaching action to liberalize trade."

Kindergarten Registration Set At Zane Trace

Registration for Kindergarten classes at Zane Trace schools will be conducted from July 1 - July 11 in the principal's office at Zane Trace Junior High School in Kingston. Registration hours are from 9 a.m. - 12 noon each day.

Students must be five years old on or before September 30 for enrollment in Kindergarten. At the time of registration, the birth certificate and immunization record must be presented. A child will not be registered without these records.

There will be a morning class of Kindergarten and an afternoon class. Classes will begin September 3. Mrs. Kathy Liston is tentatively assigned to these classes.

Finch . . .

Informed of Finch's decision, Dirksen said he would have no comment.

Finch said in a statement issued by his department Thursday that "I have no intention of leaving the administration. I regard my post as secretary . . . as a four-year commitment."

Finch has repeatedly denied any immediate aspirations beyond making a success of managing the 107,000-employee department which spends more than a quarter of the government's annual budget.

The six months of wrangling appeared at the first of the week to be building toward a climax that would see the administration take on Dirksen in an open power struggle.

The President took a nationally televised news conference last week that Finch—who was on vacation at the time—would make his recommendation this week and that whomever the secretary chose Nixon would nominate straightaway.

Finch returned from vacation Sunday and after a 15-minute meeting with Dirksen Tuesday said he had sent a letter to the White House containing his proposed nomination.

Widespread reports followed immediately that the Knowles nomination—Finch and the department had said repeatedly Knowles was the secretary's preference—was going through. Dirksen, who hadn't previously hesitated to say he would block the nomination, turned suddenly reticent at a news conference later that day.

The situation, however, changed dramatically after the President took more than a dozen senators—including Dirksen—on a Tuesday night cruise on the presidential yacht Sequoia. A rash of reports suddenly had it that chances for the nomination were dimming and one senator was quoted as saying flatly it was dead.

Mrs. Nixon Promotes Volunteer Service

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The woman's touch at the White House these days flows from the rural virtues that Pat Nixon says has sustained her since her youth as the daughter of a California farmer.

Mrs. Nixon, whose volunteer tasks as First Lady have already attracted controversy, says she works on the premise that American women could help cure the nation's social ills if they'd "only give 20 minutes a day to lend a helping hand, be neighborly and kind."

The First Lady has just completed a West Coast tour to

"vest pockets of volunteerism." Elder daughter Tricia is tutoring youngsters from the Negro ghetto and younger daughter Julie is donating her time to conduct White House tours for the deaf, the blind and disabled, as well as VIPs.

Mrs. Nixon's tour was greeted by anti-Vietnam pickets. Tricia was accused by a Washington's school board member of "well-fare colonialism."

But the First Lady, who has been running a household since her father died when she was 17 and describes the Nixons as "a volunteer family," says the impulse for volunteer women's work goes back to the days when she was a 4-H member and "raised a prize-winning pig."

"Give everybody something to do and nobody gets into trouble," she says. Jacqueline Onassis concentrated on the arts and on decorating the White House when she was First Lady. Lady Bird Johnson promoted national beautification.

Anglers Checked

LONDON (AP) — The Trent River Authority reports up to 1,500 anglers are "hooked" each year on fishing without licenses in the river in the English midlands.

Why has Mrs. Nixon decided to be the nation's foremost advocate of women as volunteer workers?

"I've been a volunteer all my life and I intend to continue it," she said. "I really want to work. I don't want to just lend my name."

Mrs. Nixon pointed out that she stayed after school when she was a teacher at Whittier, Calif., to help tutor high school pupils. She also coached cheerleaders and directed school plays.

After her marriage she worked without pay for six years in Nixon's congressional office.

"I've done a number of things. I don't want recognition. Through the years, I've done a great deal of kind things for students," including "helping them financially, quietly, from the heart. I haven't given out the names," she said.

Through an arrangement with the principal of Walker-Jones Elementary School, an 11-year-old boy and a 9-year-old girl, both third graders with learning problems, went to the White House for tutoring sessions with Tricia, 23.

Julius Hobson of the local school board urged that the tutoring be stopped.

"If the President of the United States wants to educate the children of the District of Columbia," said Hobson, "then he can do it through Congress by promoting federal aid to education instead of cutting it back."

Suspended Liquor License Rescinded

The suspension of the liquor license of the Peppermint Lounge (Evans and Lynch Inc.) which was to begin at noon, July 12 has been rescinded as of June 13.

The suspension was ordered because of the delinquency in payment of state sales taxes. The suspension was rescinded because the sales taxes were paid in full.
